Top Of The Morning

WEATHER

Sunny and warm today, with increasing cloudiness toward evening and a chance of rain tonight, is the weather outlook for today. The high temperature reading should be in the upper 70's with the overnight low near 60. It is going to be a windy day, with winds from the southwest at 18-28 mph during the day, increasing to 25-35 mph tonight. Sunrise today was at 7:12 a.m.; sunset will be at 7:12 p.m. Yesterday's 7 a.m. report: high 64 degree; low 37 degrees. There was .03 inches of precipitation recorded. The river level was 4.3 feet and falling.

Kinzua Dam Report

Pool level 1320.45 feet (desired summer pool level 1328; maximum 1365) Outflow temperature 60 degrees, upper reservoir 62 degrees. Reading at the Warren gauge 4.33 feet.

WARREN COUNTY

Warren County School District directors last night voted a $9,500 appropriation to launch an initial step in a possible vocational - technical school program for Warren County.

Three Warren Area High School students are among over 14,000 semifinalists in the National Merit Scholarship program.

A native of Warren, The Most Rev. Urban E. McGarry, TOR, DD, LLD, Bishop of the Diocese of Bhagalpur, India, will observe the silver jubilee of his ordination with a Mass of Thanksgiving Oct. 4, 1967 in the Franciscan Mission in Bihar, India.

THE NATION

A bipartisan group of 52 members of the House of Representatives proposed that Congress re-examine the Administration's Viet Nam policies to determine if there was sufficient authorization for the deepening American involvement in the war. The Congressmen, while not directly challenging present policies, suggested that the time had come for the legislative branch to pass formal judgment on the constitutionality of present policies.

By a margin of 324 to 3, the House voted to approve the creation of an elected board of education in the District of Columbia, a portion of suffrage abolished by Congress in 1874. Another measure to give Washington more self-government—a proposed constitutional amendment to give the district a seat in Congress—is expected to win approval in the House Judiciary Committee.

The marriage of 23-year-old Lynda Bird Johnson to Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb, will take place on Dec. 9 in the East Room of the White House. Miss Johnson, the seventh daughter of a President to be married in the White House, will be given away by her father in the Protestant Episcopal service.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, ordered by the Federal Communications Commission to cut back its long distance rates by $100 million a year, released its proposed new rate schedule. It called for lower rates for many long-distance calls, but higher rates for shorter long-distance calls.

THE WORLD

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said at the UN that the best course the General Assembly could take in the Middle East would be to call on the Arab states to negotiate direct peace settlements with Israel. Eban warned that the UN must not become a substitute for negotiations, or a barrier to direct settlements between Arabs and Jews.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson appeared on television to answer a barrage of harsh questions about his policies. Wilson said it was going to be a "hard winter" but he predicted that his government's "tough policies" would lead to a more "hopeful era." He denied that the electorate was losing confidence in him and the Labor Party.

SPORTS

Warren Area High School athletic teams posted four victories against one defeat yesterday. The Dragon harriers dropped both Fredonia and Jamestown in a triangular meet at the WAHS course, the golf team whipped Franklin, but lost to Titusville in a three-way match on the Rockets' course and the junior varsity football team blanked Titusville's Jayvees, 12-0. Page A8.

16-year-old Scott Barker of Warren picked 19 games correctly to win the season's first TMO Football Contest. Annette Yasurek of Sheffield and W.L. Machemer of Sugar Grove both had 18 games right, but Mrs. Yasurek took second prize by virtue of a closer score on the tie-breaker. Page A9.

Notre Dame maintained its rating as the nation's number one team in The Associated Press college poll this week, but Michigan State, third last week, tumbled out of the Top Ten and Alabama slipped from second to ninth place. Page A9.

Idle Boston gained a tie for the American League lead when Minnesota was walloped by California, 9-2 yesterday. Detroit the only other pennant contender in action, failed to take advantage of the Twins' loss as it fell to New York, 2-0. Page A8.

14 Children Dead, 30 Ill; Milk Poisoning Said Cause

TIJUANA, Mexico. (AP) — At least 14 children died yesterday and about 30 were hospitalized in critical condition—apparent victims of milk poisoning in this border city, the district attorney's office said. Countless victims, mostly children, were rushed to doctor's offices for emergency treatment while authorities in this city of 265,000 investigated milk products.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Hector Valdivia said the poison was apparently in milk sold Sunday by the La Vaquita Milk Co.

Tijuana radio and television studios broadcast warnings about the milk and state police seized all milk and milk products in local markets, halting sale until further notice.

The health department in San Diego, Calif., across the border was running tests on milk samples.

Dr. Jorge Salas, a physician at the Red Cross emergency station in Tijuana, said it was "definitely milk poisoning." Dr. Salas said many of the hospitalized children are not expected to live.

Children vomited and trembled uncontrollably and held their stomachs, while mothers wept hysterically and doctors worked feverishly, witnesses said.

All milk distributors and dairies were asked to stop deliveries and return the products.

Dr. James B. Askew, health director of San Diego County, said he didn't expect to have results of the milk tests before sometime today.

"We agreed to analyze the milk when the Tijuana police department asked us for help," Askew said. "They also asked us to help with post mortem examination on the victims and we referred them to the county coroner."

Askew said he doesn't believe poisoning was caused by a naturally occurring contaminant such as bacteria.

"It's my understanding that the milk was delivered and consumed since Sunday, and any poisoning this soon would be too fast to be due to an infection."

"It could be any protoplasmic poison, from arsenic to an insecticide to cyanide," he said.

Leaflet-Drop Said Monumental Foulup

By TOM BUCKLEY

(C) N.Y. Times News Service SAIGON — "A monumental foulup," an American source said today to describe the dropping of a quarter-million out-of-date propaganda leaflets in the wrong place.

The leaflets, dropped on the North Vietnamese village of Benquang, just north of the demilitarized zone, after two recent B-52 strikes, warned that the raids would continue and added:

"Use this leaflet for the government of South Vietnam safe conduct pass and rally to the nearest government outpost. The Republic of Vietnam soldiers and the people will happily welcome you."

When the drop was announced yesterday, questions were immediately asked. Was the United States for the first time encouraging defections from North to South Vietnam? How would villagers get across the demilitarized zone, which has been under almost continuous air and artillery bombardment for several weeks?

This morning there was an explanation. The leaflets, composed by the American military command rather than the psychological operations branch of the U.S. Information Agency, have been used after B-52 strikes for more than a year.

In the past, though, this has also meant use in insecure areas of South Vietnam, a source said. With the bombings hitting North Vietnam, he added, someone forgot to cancel the standing order for the leaflet drop.

"They were emphatically not directed at the civilian population of North Vietnam," the source said.

Furthermore, a psychological warrior added, the leaflet, which speaks of the 34,000 enemy troops who have gone over to the South Vietnamese government as "open arms" returnees is out of date. The total now is 72,000.

Con Thien Fortress Is Ringed by Fire

SAIGON (AP) — The embattled U.S. Marine fortress at Con Thien was ringed by fire today with artillery, tactical jets and giant B52 bombers answering Communist mortars and long-range guns. It was the greatest firepower exchange in Vietnam since the climactic French debacle at Dien Bien Phu.

Waves of the eight-engined Stratofortress hit enemy concentrations around Con Thien and in the demilitarized zone four times last night and this morning with an estimated 600,000 pounds of bombs.

The raids followed on the heels of tactical strikes by Marine and Air Force planes and raids from the carrier-based Navy planes of the Intrepid.

The ground artillery and air power make up what the U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, has called the greatest concentration of conventional firepower in history. The sustained Communist shellings are greater than anything seen since fabled Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap ringed the French fortress of Dien Bien

Phu with howitzers in 1954.

The U.S. Marines at Con Thien and nearby outposts reported receiving 650 rounds of rockets, mortar and artillery fire in 12 separate bombardments yesterday.

In return, the Marines unloaded some 17,000 rounds of heavy artillery and mortar fire, including fire from 105mm and long-range 155mm guns.

Marine casualties Monday were listed as two killed and 90 wounded, of which 32 required evacuation. Enemy casualties were not known.

Marine officers said the North Vietnamese used a wide variety of their biggest shells. They included Russian-made 120 mm and 140mm rockets, 120 mm mortars, 82mm recoilless rifle fire and 85mm artillery shells.

The U.S. Command summoned Navy attack jets from the Intrepid and the Skyhawk pilots reported destroying four North Vietnamese artillery pieces just north of the DMZ. They said their bombs also set off large explosions at an ammunition dump in the area.

House Members Ask Review of Viet Policies

(C) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — A bipartisan group of 52 House members proposed yesterday that Congress re-examine administration policies in Vietnam to determine if there was sufficient authorization for the deepening American involvement in the Vietnam war.

The representatives, joined together in sponsorship of a proposed congressional resolution, did not directly challenge the administration's Vietnam policies, but they suggested that the time had come for Congress to pass formal judgment on the correctness and constitutional authority of those policies.

The resolution, drafted under the leadership of Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., and Rep. F. Bradford Morse, R-Mass., would call upon the House Foreign Affairs Committee and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to determine "whether further congressional action is desirable in respect to policies in Southeast Asia."

The principal sponsor of the resolution explained at a Capitol Hill news conference that their resolution was prompted by a growing "uneasiness" in Congress over the course of the American involvement in the Vietnam war and a question whether the 1964 Gulf of Tonkin resolution represented sufficient authority for the increasing military commitment.

Yesterday's resolution brought together an unusual coalition of congressional "hawks" and "doves", joined together by a common concern that Congress had been bypassed in the determination of Vietnam policy.

The coalition consisted of 48 Republican co-sponsors and four Democrats.

Findley said, however, that the resolution represented "neither a dove move nor a hawk move" but rather was "a move toward assertion of constitutional responsibilities" by Congress.

A similar movement toward reassertion of congressional prerogatives in foreign policy is underway in the Senate, where the Foreign Relations Committee next week is expected to approve a resolution limiting the authority of the executive branch to enter into military commitments without specific legislative approval.

The immediate focus of this congressional movement is the Gulf of Tonkin resolution.

Findley said he sensed "a great uneasiness" about the Vietnam war among members of Congress, including many who voted for the Gulf of Tonkin resolution. This uneasiness, he said, stems from the fact that at the time the resolution was passed, "very little consideration was given to the military and political situation in Vietnam and the policies we were undertaking there."

Texas River Pushed To Frenzy by Rains

By JACK KEEVER

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — The Rio Grande, on its most massive flood in history despite a multi-million dollar flood control system, topped another diversion dam yesterday, buried fashionable homes and attacked even its own channel.

The record rains of Hurricane Beulah pushed the Rio Grande to a new frenzy. Some 5,000 persons fled to higher ground at Harlingen yesterday and a spokesman for the International Boundary and Water Commission said the situation would get no better in the next two days.

Homes in Harlingen's most exclusive section were buried by floodwaters from a broken diversion dam on the Arroyo Colorado. Another, but smaller, floodway diversion structure upstream gave way yesterday at Little Madero.

The crest of the main Rio Grande flood remained upstream above Anzaldues Dam. Officials in Harlingen closed off some 30-40 blocks of the city and tried to contain the Arroyo Colorado's flooding within them with hastily thrown up sandbag dikes.

Official Mexican sources reported 90 blocks of Reynosa, flooded during the morning. Across the river in McAllen, Texans coughed in caustic gases from flooded sewers.

Study of Vo-Tech Needs is Launched

By BETTY RICE

Warren County School District directors last night voted a $9,500 appropriation to launch an initial step in a possible vocational-technical school program here.

Board president Melvin G. Keller, however, emphasized the fact the move does not mean a "full steam ahead program" at this time but only a study or survey to evaluate the county's needs. Results of the survey will be submitted to the board for its recommendations.

Hired to conduct the survey was Samuel Merritt, an instructor at Johnstown High School and the only applicant with required certification. His current contract calls for him to take over the post November 1 of this year until June of 1968, the end of the school term.

Merritt's contract calls for $8,665 in salary, the balance of the appropriation to take care of travel expenses. Federal funds administered by the state provide 60 per cent reimbursement salary-wise with 80 per cent reimbursable for travel costs.

The new director will operate out of the school district office with local staff assistance. It was explained last night.

Superintendent Thomas Barratt reported sufficient persons enrolled in adult education classes to warrant the program with the possible exception of classes in quality control. The board agreed to add a course in apprentice engineering training if there are enough people interested in signing up.

Bids for the Eisenhower High School sewage plant will be opened at 8 p.m. October 11 before the Warren County School District Authority.

Commended in a resolution were the following teachers who retired at the end of the 1966-67 school year: Mrs. Helen C. Morrow, 43 years; Mrs. Ruth Solinger, 43 years; Miss Kathryn L. Kennedy, 41 years; John Reddcliff, 41 years; Mrs. Mary B. Vincent, 35 years; Harvey Horn, 35 years; Mrs. Rosa Lee Reese, 30 years; Mrs. Lucille Price, 30 years; Mrs. Ellen Lynch, 28 years and Mrs. Alice Ryckman, 21 years.

Requests to attend conferences were accorded as follows: Alvera Anderson, Warren Area High School, Nurses Christian Fellowship, Sept. 14 and 15; Terrence Hook, Youngsville High School, American Guidance and Personnel Association, minimum five days Spring 1968; James Jewell, WAHS, Pennsylvania State Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation convention, Dec. 7, 8, 9. Also Byron Welker, Youngsville High School; Joel Beason, WAHS; Lucille Leathers, Eisenhower High School and Helen Olson, Beatty Junior.

Barbara Soback, Jefferson School, Council of Exceptional Children, Oct. 20-22; Regna L. Swanson, Market street school, State Conference, Department of Pupil Services, PSEA, Oct. 13 and 14; Thomas E. Walsh, Tidoute High School, APGA, five day minimum, spring 1968; Harold Guthrie, principal Tidoute schools.

Ronald Dunbar was named assistant basketball coach at Eisenhower High School for the current school year. A payment of $90 was approved to George Junior Republic School in lieu of completion of a two-year football contract.

Bills in the amount of $77,042.67 were submitted and payment approved. A bid of $5,699.50 for 46 manual typewriters and six electric models also was unanimously accepted by the board.

William Brocklebank of the evaluation committee will attend a meeting in Brookville Nov. 8, 9 and 10 and Robert M. Green was granted military leave Oct. 2-6, the latter covered by the school code.

Wilson Sees Hard Winter for Britain

(C) N. Y. Times News Service

LONDON — Prime Minister Wilson told the British people last night that it was "going to be a hard winter," but said that the Labor government's "tough policies" were leading toward a "much more hopeful era."

Wilson's comments on a television program came in reply to questions based on forecasts that the government's policies will result in 800,000 to 1 million unemployed this winter. He denied suggestions that the country was losing confidence in him and in the Labor government, as reflected in Conservative victories in two by-elections last week.

"We are still paying the price for the measures we had to take in July of last year," the Prime Minister explained. He recalled that he had warned the measures would be unpopular and promised not to risk the return of inflation by courting popularity.

The Labor government's July economic package, designed to deflate the economy and defend the value of the pound by reducing the balance of payments, have brought steadily increasing unemployment to a nation that had become accustomed to full employment.

Borough Tax Collector, Gerould Ostergard, announced yesterday that Friday Sept. 29, 1967, is the last day to pay 1967 taxes at a discount. Local residents are reminded the tax office is closed on Saturday.

AID WOUNDED MARINE

Wounded Marines receive medical aid at this lonely muddy outpost just below the DMZ near Con Thien, S. Vietnam. This is only one of many similar scenes last Saturday following continued Communist artillery barrages. More than 700

American fighting men have been killed or wounded under the Communist artillery onslaught, most of them at Con Thien since the enemy barrage began Sept. 1st.

Gordon MacRae Marries Divorcee

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Gordon MacRae and socialite Elizabeth Lambert Schrafft were married yesterday at a brief ceremony in St. Peter's Lutheran church.

Among the 75 guests were the four children of MacRae's long-time marriage to his singing partner and television actress, Sheila MacRae. She divorced him last year and married her producer, Richard Wayne.

The new Mrs. MacRae, 39, divorced last month from restaurant heir George Schrafft, met MacRae, 45, three months ago.

SCENE OF FATAL ACCIDENT NEAR BEAR LAKE

Two youthful occupants of this auto lie dead at the scene of an accident which occurred Sunday night. A third occupant of the car was taken to Corry Memorial Hospital and later transferred to St. Vincent's Hospital in Erie where hospital officials listed his condition as very critical. According to state police of the Corry substation, the car failed to negotiate a curve and was torn apart when it hit a utility pole. The mishap occurred at 10:30 p.m. on Route 958, two miles south of Bear Lake. (Photo by Mahan)

Belittles Reports Of Plane Troubles

(c) N.Y. Times News Service LAS VEGAS, Nev.—The Air Force's top fighter plane commander has belittled reports of troubles with the F-111A fighter bomber now being prepared to duty in Vietnam.

"We always have a lot of problems with airplanes until we get them out in the field and then the people in the field seem to cure it," said Gen. G. P. Disosway, chief of the Air Force Tactical Air Command.

"No matter what you read in the newspapers, it does fly... we've been flying them for about 60 hours a month."

Talking Saturday at ceremonies formally stationing the plane at nearby Nellis Air Force Base, the general said, "It's certainly the most advanced aircraft right now... I suspect in the world, although the Russians, I understand, had a swing-wing at a show they had over in Moscow."

He concluded, "We've got it (the plane) where it belongs now—with the people who are going to fly it and fight it. We're going to make a good weapons system out of it."

According to Air Force public information officers here, more than 4,000 flying hours have been recorded for the F-111A.

The first of the planes arrived at Nellis July 17. Five are now being tested and used for fighter pilot training at the base.

The Tactical Air Command has logged a total of 557 hours for the plane, and last month Nellis averaged 55 hours per aircraft. Disosway said the

Chrysler Cuts Back Its Hike in Prices

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. rolled back yesterday previously announced price increases for 1968 models, and American Motors Corp. became the fourth U.S. automaker to announce an increase for 1968s.

Chrysler said its new average increase was $101, or 3.5 per cent, over comparable 1967 models. Originally Chrysler figured its average at $133, or 4.6 per cent.

After Chrysler announced 1968 prices first, General Motors came up with suggested retail delivery price increases averaging $110, or 3.6 per cent, and Ford announced an average boost of $114, or 3.9 per cent.

Chrysler's new prices are effective today.

American Motors announced earlier yesterday that its Rambler American and Rebel models will carry suggested retail prices up $89, or 3.8 per cent from 1967.

Price increases in AMC's top-of-the-line Ambassador series from $147 to $230, but air conditioning, a $350 optional item on 1967 models, is made standard equipment on 1968s.

As Chrysler, General Motors and Ford had previously, American Motors left the way open for additional price boosts if la-

Fed Reserve To Consider Policy Change

(c) N.Y. Times News Service NEW YORK—The Federal Reserve Board will, in the near future, consider a sweeping revision of the policies that govern its lending to its member banks, it was learned yesterday.

Under the proposals, which grow out of a two-year study by the Federal Reserve of its lending operations, the central bank's lending rate, or "discount rate," might be changed frequently—perhaps as often as once every two weeks—rather than rarely as at present.

Member banks would be able to borrow as a matter of right, rather than as privilege. They would have lines of credit, and they would be able to borrow for periods of up to, say, six months, in contrast to the 15-day maturity that is typical now.

Word of the proposed changes leaked out of a closed meeting of the Banking and Financial Research Committee of the American Bankers Association, which was held on Sunday afternoon.

Consider Cutting Long-Distance Rate

By EILEEN SHANAHAN (c) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON—The American Telephone and Telegraph Company yesterday proposed to the government lower rates for many long-distance telephone calls but higher rates for some short-distance calls that cross state boundaries.

The maximum increase for interstate calls would be 5 cents for the first three minutes.

The rate reductions would apply to long-distance calls of considerable distance—468 miles or more—though not to all of them.

However, the night and weekend hours during which long-distance calls cost less would be extended.

The new rates proposed by A.T. & T. fulfill the order issued by the Federal Communications Commission in July that required the company to cut long-distance rates by a total

Elected D.C. Schools Board Gets Approval

(c) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — The House voted overwhelmingly yesterday to give back to the District of Columbia a portion of the local suffrage it abolished here in 1874.

The House vote approving the creation of an elected board of education in disfranchised Washington was 324 to 3, a margin that reform spokesmen regarded as remarkable after decades of consistently unsuccessful appeals to Congress to liberalize the city's nonrepresentative municipal institutions.

An even more significant measure in a sudden surge of important District of Columbia bills is reported to be almost certain to obtain the approval of the House Judiciary Committee today. It is a proposed constitutional amendment—a move rejected by Congress 86 times since 1793—to give the District a seat in the House of Representatives. This city of 810,000 persons has no representation in Congress. In 1961 citizens here were given the right to vote for President.

There were nine tables playing the Mitchell movement at last night's meeting of the Marconi Bridge club.

North-South average was 94½. First: Mrs. Eric Wilkinson, D. L. Vetera 121; Second: Mrs. Arthur DeLuca, Mrs. M. A. Kornreich, 119; Third: Miss Felicia Lucia, Mrs. Marshall Johnson, 92; Fourth: Mr. and Mrs. James Potter, 91½.

East-West average was 84. First: Mrs. Horace Crary, Dr. R.H. Israel, 94½; Second: D. E. Conaway, James Torrance, 92½; Third: Mrs. N.J. Young, Robert Larsen, 92; Fourth: Mrs. Hugh Mohnney, Mrs. N.J. Mangus, 91½.

Next week's game will be the monthly Master Point game.

Completes Course

Archie K. Campbell, 315 Oneida ave., Warren completed an ICS course in machine shop practice.

Campbell is a tool grinder with the National Forge Company, Irvine, and has now enrolled in a course in hydraulic and pneumatic power with ICS, which the Forge is sponsoring for a group of their employees.

Bear Lake Youth's Condition Serious

A 16-year-old Bear Lake youth was reported in serious condition at St. Vincent's Hospital in Erie last night suffering from injuries sustained in a one-car accident Sunday night which claimed the lives of two other teenagers.

According to officials at Corry Memorial Hospital, James Beck, a passenger in the death car, was admitted to the Corry hospital following the accident but was later transferred to St. Vincent's in Erie.

State police yesterday stated they had determined the driver of the vehicle involved to be David Newark, 17, one of the victims pronounced dead at the scene. The other youth, aged 17, killed in the 10:30 p.m. accident was Delbert Ploss. Both were residents of Bear Lake.

The fatal mishap occurred on Route 958, two miles south of Bear Lake when the car failed to negotiate a curve and was torn apart when it hit a utility pole, police said.

Corry troopers investigated.

Condition of Victims in Busti Accident Unchanged

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — Attendants at Jamestown General Hospital reported last night that the condition of the victims of Sunday night's auto crash in the town of Busti remains unchanged. Still listed in fair condition is Terry B. Seeley 25 of 95 Fairmount ave., Jamestown. Twenty-year-old Gary Hazard of 237 McKinley ave., Jamestown, and Jack Lantz, 20 of Cowing road, Busti, N.Y. were reported in good condition. Lantz reportedly suffered a compound fracture of the left leg and Hazard from deep cuts about the face.

All three men were passengers in an auto being operated by 40-year-old Patrick J. Lewis of Trask road, Busti, N.Y., who was dead on arrival at Jamestown General Hospital. Also killed in the crash was Guy E. Farnsworth, 34, of 228½ Lakeview ave., Lakewood, N.Y.

Town of Busti Police Chief Stephen Showers said that Lewis was traveling south on Shadyside drive when his car collided with the northbound Farnsworth auto. The death of Farnsworth and Lewis brought the total to 43 killed so far this year on Chautauqua County highways, three more than were killed in all of 1966. The all time record of 48 killed was set in 1964.

Mohnney Pleads Guilty to N.Y. Charges

Ronald G. Mohnney, 18, of 18 Hertz st., who police said was the driver of a vehicle involved in an accident July 19, 1967, which claimed the life of Michael Hesch, has pleaded guilty to the charges placed against him by New York State police.

According to Peace Justice Paul Covey of the town of Poland, Mohnney pleaded guilty to the charge of speeding and passing on a double line in a letter sent to the Peace Justice Sept. 15th.

Mohnney was scheduled to appear before the justice of the peace for a formal hearing on Sept. 18.

According to Peace Justice Covey, Mohnney was fined $25 for speeding and an additional $10 for passing on a double line.

'Airport Day' At Jamestown

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — The Jamestown Civil Air Patrol Squadron announced yesterday that plans are nearly complete for "Airport Day" scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 8. The event will be held at Jamestown Municipal Airport, where helicopter and airplane rides will be available to the public.

In addition to a fly-in breakfast from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. and a chicken barbecue at noon, the festivities will include several displays featuring home built planes and various types of military aircraft.

Viet Vote Probe Shows Tally Error

By TOM BUCKLEY
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
SAIGON—"I have no idea who won in our village," said Tran Van Moi, "But I think it was Dzu. We had nothing to do with the voting process and no control over it."

Moi is the elected chief of Binhnhut Village, in Longan Province, south of Saigon. He was one of a score of village, district and province officials interviewed over the last two weeks in an examination of official polling records in five provinces in the Saigon area. This sampling, while not extensive enough to do more than give tentative clues to what might have gone on elsewhere in the country, provided one example of the suspicious alteration of a district tally sheet that cost three civilian candidates a total of 443 votes. It also showed that the election regulation requiring the posting of the official results at each polling place was ignored. In many instances, as with Moi, village officials were given no part in the election, except the task of providing security. Clerks and poll-watchers were brought in by the district chiefs.

At only one polling place — each village had several — was an observer for one of the civilian candidates present.

Eight of the ten civilian candidates, led by Truong Dinh Dzu and Phan Khac Suu, who finished second and third, accused the winning ticket of the present chief of state, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, and his vice President, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, of fraud and illegal pressure. They have filed charges to that effect with the national assembly, which has the responsibility of certifying the validity of the voting. An anti-government newspaper, Thai Dai, reported that a special committee of the Constituent Assembly had decided to recommend the invalidation of the Sept. 3 election. The 17-member committee is scheduled to file its report on Thursday.

Representatives Of Steel Truckers Meet Pa. Officials

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Representatives of striking steel haulers in Pennsylvania said yesterday they would meet in Harrisburg with members of the Shafar administration in an effort to find peaceful solutions to the violence-plagued truckers strike.

The conference, scheduled for 1 p. m. today, was set up by Joseph J. Kelly Jr., the governor's executive secretary, and William J. Hart, state secretary of labor and industry. They will meet with two representatives of the Pennsylvania Steel Haulers Protest Committee, Richard Huss and John Kelly, according to a committee spokesman.

A member of the committee insisted yesterday that his group had not yet taken a vote. Political observers consider it highly unlikely that the assembly would go along with any proposal to invalidate the results.

A team of 22 observers appointed by President Johnson visited polling places on election day and, in general, they hailed the honesty and order of the voting. They left South Vietnam 24 hours after the polls closed.

An analysis of the vote at individual polling stations also indicated that Thieu, as expected, received from two-thirds to three-quarters of the military vote, compared with his 35 per cent share in the nation as a whole. The general, a convert to Catholicism, did even better among Roman Catholics. Dzu scored heavily among peasants and rubber-plantation workers.

The one seeming example of cheating took place in the Benue District's 20 polling places. The original figures for two polling places, written in ink, had been crossed out.

The new figures, written in pencil, reduced the vote of Tran Van Huong, who had been regarded as the strongest of the civilian candidates but finished a disappointing fourth in the election. In one polling place his vote was reduced to three and at another it went from 104 to 2. Dzu lost a total of 173 votes in this way and Suu lost 57.

The total vote in the district, 9,195, was unchanged, as was the total for the Thieu ticket, 2,370, which carried the district. Dzu was second in the changed totals with 2,083. Huong was third with 899 and Suu was fourth with 553.

The votes lost by the three candidates had been transferred to Pham Huy Co and Tran Van Ly, who finished 10th and 11th, or last, in the voting nationally. Asked why the changes in the official tally had been made, the district chief, Capt. Do Thien Mo, said that the first results from the two polling places had been garbled in radio transmission. His American adviser, Maj. Robert Myer of Tallahassee, Fla., concurred.

Eban Urges UN Call for Negotiation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., (AP) — Israel stood firm yesterday on its demand for direct negotiations with Arab nations as the only course to peace in the Middle East and indicated no weakening of its strong grip on Jerusalem.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban, in a major address to the U.N. General Assembly, declared that "a call to Middle Eastern states to negotiate the conditions of their future coexistence is the most constructive course which this assembly can take." "The issue is one of principle and substance," Eban said. "A refusal to negotiate is inherently identical with a refusal to live in peace."

Eban's address was preceded by a Jordanian denunciation of Israel's pursuit of a policy of "persecution and terrorism" in the Arab territories it seized during the Arab-Israeli war in June.

Jordan's foreign minister, Muhammad Adeb el-Aamiry, speaking briefly on a point of order, said Israel's weekend deportation of Jerusalem Arab leader Sheikh Abdul Hamid Sa'leh and its announcement of plans to establish Israeli settlements in captured Arab territory showed "utter disregard for principles of law and order."

the-floor discussions, attempted yesterday to nudge the lengthy tax dispute off dead center.

Minority Democrats offered to provide votes necessary to pass the House-approved $59.9 million corporate net income tax proposal, but the Republican caucus asked for time to think it over.

In return, Democrats were asking for immediate passage of some $54.3 million in appropriations, including $34.6 million for the college scholarship program.

Some members of the GOP caucus took the position that the CNI and House-approved $68.5 million cigarette tax proposal, also in the Senate, should be passed as a package.

Senate Minority Leader Ernest F. Kline, however, said no agreement has been reached on the cigarette taxes.

President Pro Tempore Robert D. Fleming said after the session an attempt would be made today to iron out an agreement with Democrats on the entire tax dispute.

The Republican-controlled House is in recess until Oct. 9 because of a national legislative conference in Texas, but it is prepared to return earlier if an agreement on taxes is reached.

"I am delighted that the Democrats are coming around and meeting their responsibilities," Gov. Shafer commented. "It looks like this is going to be a break in the log jam."

Lindsay Sets Up Talks on Strike

NEW YORK—Mayor John V. Lindsay called both sides in the school dispute to City Hall yesterday as the school system's emergency operations appeared to be on the verge of total collapse.

Lindsay, cancelling a speaking engagement out of town, brought top officials of the Board of Education and the United Federation of Teachers together for what was described as an "intensive" effort to end the walkout by city teachers, now in its third week.

The new attempt was aimed at resolving the dispute that developed over the terms of the "oral settlement" reached last Wednesday at the mayor's Gracie Mansion home. Both the union and the board have accused each other of renegeing on that agreement.

The school system, meanwhile, faced difficulties on several fronts, as it tried to provide makeshift classes for pupils during the current emergency.

Fewer teachers and pupils showed up yesterday than at any time since the work stoppage began Sept. 1.

Only 130,000 of the city's more than one million public school pupils showed up for classes. The number of teachers working fell below 10,000.

The system has nearly 59,500 teachers. However, the Board of Education said that all schools will be open today and urged parents to send their children to classes.

The Council of Supervisory Associations, many of whose members have been working, announced that unless all schools were immediately closed, "we will dismiss pupils as soon as they report to schools to protect them against the hazardous conditions that now exist."

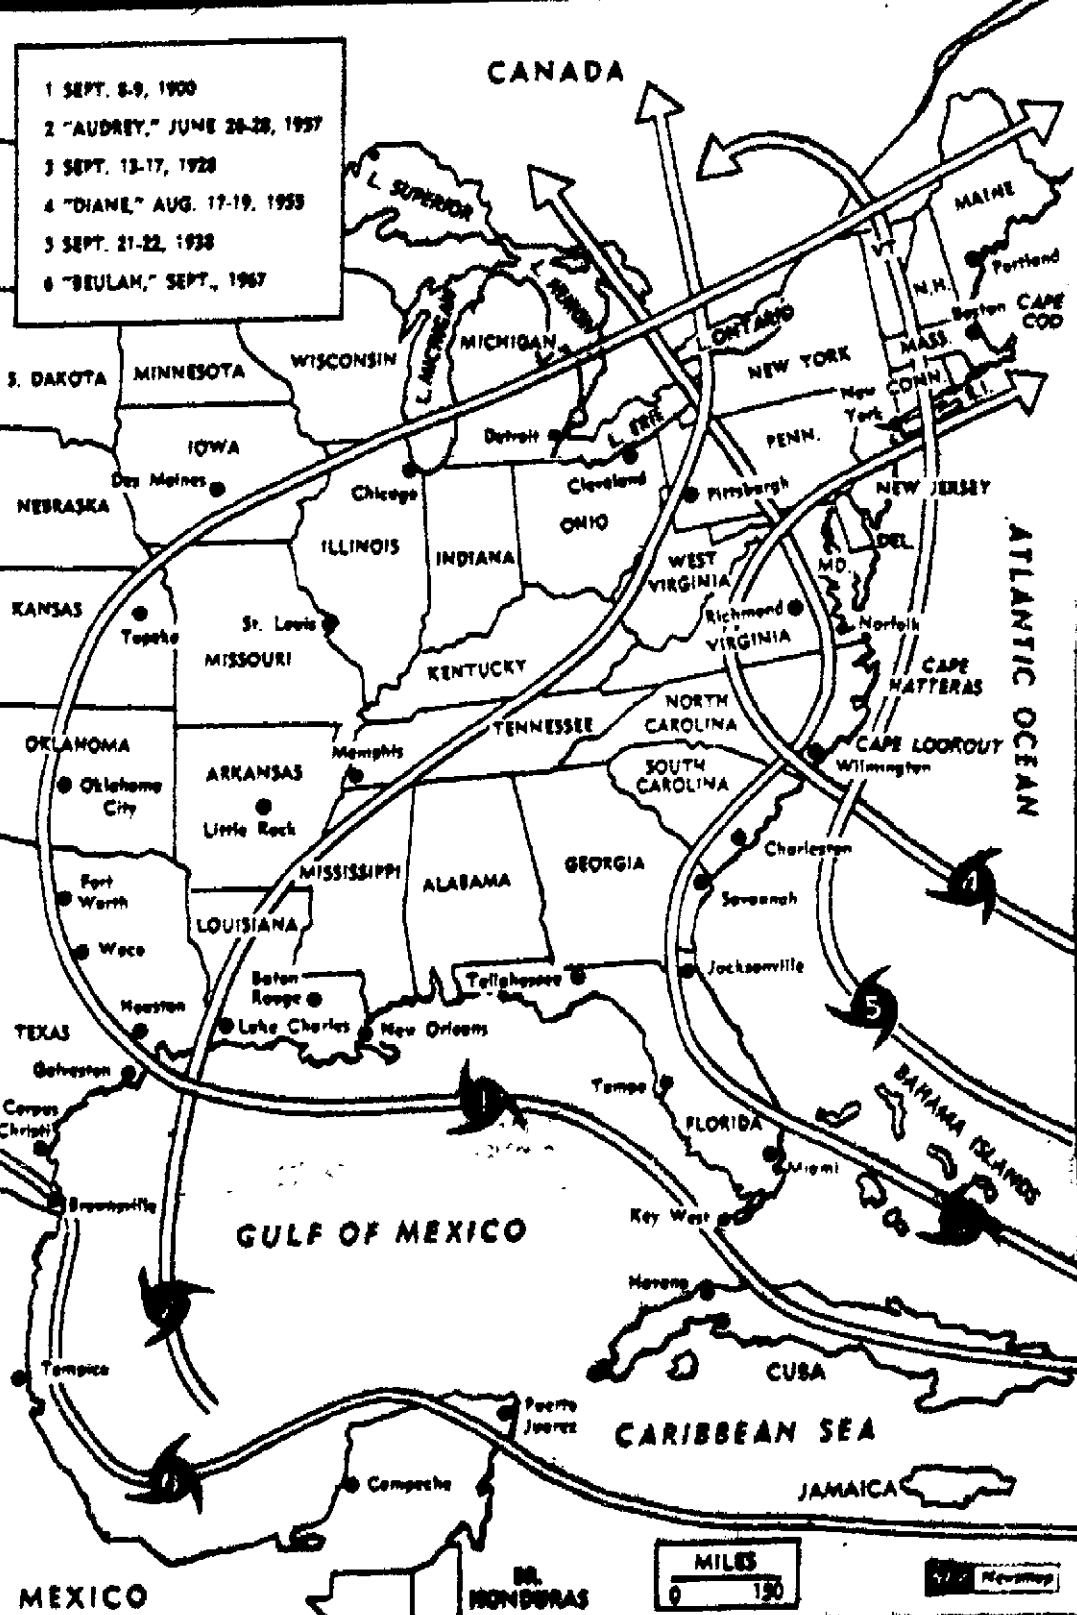

Mrs. Florence Flast, president of the 400,000-member United Parents Associations, sent a telegram to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and State Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr., urging that a "state of emergency" be declared here because of the school walkout.

Protestants Meet With Gov. Shafer

HARRISBURG (AP) — Ten representatives of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches conferred with Gov. Shafer yesterday to voice their objections to a House bill which would provide state aid to nonpublic schools.

Shafer sought the meeting with the Protestant church officials following a similar conference on Friday with two Roman Catholic bishops. The Most Revs. J. Carroll McCormick of Scranton and William G. Connare of Greensburg.

The Protestant spokesmen represented the Episcopal, Baptist, Methodist, Lutheran and United Church of Christ denominations. The Council of Churches is opposed to the bill, House Bill 1136, on grounds that it violates the constitutional separation of church and state and fails to provide for adequate control of public funds.

The Council represents the 16 major Protestant denominations in the commonwealth. The two bishops urged Shafer to support HB 1136, but failed to receive a commitment other than the governor is in favor of some sort of state aid to the financially troubled nonpublic schools.

More Reason To Be Aware

When it comes to appreciating the tourism potential of any given area there are few groups more knowledgeable than the members of the Pennsylvania Outdoor Writers Association. Most are widely traveled and can discuss in detail almost any nationally known tourist attraction from the Redwood forests of California to the salmon streams of Newfoundland.

In fact, Roger Latham (Pittsburgh Press), second vice president of the organization, was absent from the annual meeting held this past week-end at Allenberry on the Yellow Breeches because he missed plane connections while returning from a tour of vacation spots in South America.

So when these writers express an almost unanimous interest in what they are pleased to call the "Kinzua Country," as they did at the Allenberry conference, there is ample reason for the concerned community to take notice. There is also ample reason for the concerned community to consider what these writers include when they talk about the Kinzua Country.

For rather than single out the various attractions that can be found within a reasonable distance of the Kinzua Dam, they are inclined to bulk all into a package that will lend itself to a single coverage. A coverage that can offer items of interest to the widely varying tastes of their readers.

The reservoir is appreciated for its potential as a fisherman's paradise in the near future, as a boat-er's delight, as a scenic jewel, and as the location of developed recreational facilities. Just as the tailwaters of the dam and the river downstream are appreciated for the potential they hold for satisfying the needs of the wading fisherman, a wealth of camping opportunities for the camper and trailer owner, a thrilling obstacle course for the canoeist-adventurer, and a scenic spectacular for the mobile outdoorist.

How far downstream? To the Tionesta Dam. For isn't the Tionesta Dam becoming nationally known as a musky lake that will compare with any other body of water where the "tiger" fish is king?

And too, isn't the Tionesta Dam sort of a cornerstone of the Allegheny National Forest with its hundreds of miles of unsurpassed trout waters, hiking trails, scenic forest roads, and half-million acres of hunting lands?

To these writers the Kinzua Country is as big as the Ponderosa, or bigger. And as rich in "tourist" wealth as the Ponderosa could ever be in the more material kind. All it needs is a dedicated Father Ben (or Bens) to guide it to its destiny.

There is but slight chance that these experienced writers, with their vast knowledge of the established vacation meccas, could be over-estimating the potential of the Kinzua Country, or even the extent of its boundaries. Their sincerity is proven by the enthusiastic interest they have for the area. Or even by the wealth of publicity they have already had published in news media and national magazines.

Yes, the members of the Pennsylvania Outdoor Writers are fully aware of what the Kinzua Country has to offer the tourist and vacation-er—but are we, as a community, fully aware?

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

Labor vs. The Labor Union

In New York City three outfits have been planning and scheming to publish an afternoon newspaper to compete with the New York Post, the working assumption being that the city is too large for so few newspapers. Time Magazine, the New York Times and the New York Daily News have all of them come up with prototypes with which the editors are greatly pleased—and yet nothing has happened. They are deterred by the fact of the labor unions. There is no doubt that, but for the unions, a new newspaper would arise. Indeed, but for the unions, the defunct papers would not have died.

But, happily, there are those who not only inveigh against labor union monopolies, but those who are willing to take action. The thinking is that unless this country finally loses hold of its reason, the Supreme Court has got to come around to acknowledging the right of the individual to decline to join a labor union and still hold down his job; the illegality, in other words, of the union shop agreement.

Last Friday, 24 employees of the McDonnell Douglas Corporation in Los Angeles filed a law suit with the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of California which hopes to bring the matter before the Supreme Court in such a way as to force it to acknowledge the constitutional questions involved. The lawyers for the plaintiffs point out in their brief that the labor union in question, the International Association of Machinists, has contracted with McDonnell that all employees must within thirty days join the union and pay dues or "agency fees," which is another term for dues; and pointed out, moreover, that the IAM regularly engages in political activity.

"The exaction of compulsory agency fee payments from plaintiffs," the lawyers contend, "and the use of such agency fee payments for the purposes aforesaid, imposes upon them political and ideological conformity, prevents them from exercising their rights and privileges as citizens of the United States, deprives them of their civil rights guaranteed to them under statutes of the United States, injures them in their persons and property, and abridges rights guaranteed to them under the First, Fifth, and Ninth Amendments to the United States Constitution, which Amendments guarantee to individuals freedom of association, freedom of thought, freedom of speech, freedom of political action, freedom to pursue the occupations of their choice, freedom from unwarranted invasion of their privacy, and other fundamental personal rights and liberties."

I wish I had said that! Now the lawsuit in question seeks to move the courts forward from the position they finally took in the "Loopier" case, which was filed in Georgia in 1953 and finally decided twelve (12) years later. Miss Nancy Loopier and a few of her colleagues sued to dissolve a union shop agreement between their union and their employer on the grounds that the defendants were being forced to finance political activities with which they were not in sympathy. Years and years went by and finally the Supreme Court, in a monstrous evasion, agreed with Miss Loopier that the unions had no right to use her money for political purposes, but instead of taking generic action against union shops, the crafty old gentlemen of the Court simply ordered the union to reimburse to Miss Loopier et al that part of the dues they had paid to the union which had been spent on political activity.

But Justice Black, in his own opinion, may have presaged what the Supreme Court may soon feel compelled to take a principled stand against. "There can be no doubt," he said, "that the federally sanctioned union shop contract here, as it actually works, takes a part of the earnings of some men and turns it over to others, who spend a substantial part of the funds so received in efforts to thwart the political, economic and ideological hopes of those whose money has been forced from them under authority of law."

MASON DENISON

The 'Utterance Role'

HARRISBURG — The current session of Pennsylvania's Legislature has pointed up a unique facet of political life few have recognized — a transition quietly in the making the past few years.

Ironically it makes sense no matter how you look at it—the only area of women's representation in the state legislature is in the "utterance role" of the state chairman of Pennsylvania's two major political parties.

What has happened is this: Until a few years ago it was accepted as routine for the state chairman of either party to maintain an almost constant patter in the public prints either for or against any move within the realm of state government. Mimeographed pronouncements detailing the stand of the state chairman on matters of government were cranked out on virtually a daily schedule.

Today — to illustrate the striking change — such utterances on the part of the political leaders have become almost (but not quite) nonexistent.

Why the change? It's interesting. Today the concept seems to be growing (as it should have long ago) that governmental matters, per se, are somewhat outside the realm of the political process, insofar as voting a personal opinion is concerned.

In contrast, only a few short years ago it was quite the accepted thing for a party state chairman to vent his views on almost any subject, complete with exotic lashings in the direction of his political opposite. Finally it dawned on some of the more enlightened brethren within the realm of political strategy that more and more people today were taking what the state chairman had to say with considerably more than a grain of political salt, or to sum it up: the utterance was written off as nothing more than an ultra-biased conglomeration of political froth.

Today the voter is decidedly more literate, more acutely aware of what is going on in the realm of (his) public government. There is a growing tendency to dismiss as pure political babble what a political pro such as a state chairman may have to say for or against, for example, a piece of legislation.

The state chairman today is becoming increasingly more concerned (as he should have long ago) with matters political

ART BUCHWALD

The FBI In Love And War

WASHINGTON — One of the most interesting decisions in American jurisprudence is now being tossed around in the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington. The outcome could directly affect every GI now in his country's service. The question involved is whether an ex-GI who had become used to necking and petting while he was in the military service had the legal right to continue this activity in civilian life without getting fired from the FBI.

Buchwald

The veteran involved was a 26-year-old clerk named Thomas Carter, who kept a girl overnight in his apartment. Carter, in sworn testimony, said he did nothing but "neck" and "spoon," but J. Edgar Hoover said his conduct was unbecoming an employee of the FBI.

While taking testimony the other day, Judge Harold Leventhal seemed to be on the side of a veteran's "right to neck" law. He pointed out that under a uniform military training act, a returning serviceman must be given a chance to adjust to civilian life and that necking and spooning is just something an ex-GI cannot forget overnight. He felt the FBI had not given Carter, who had just been discharged from the Air Force, enough time to get over his predilection for girls.

But the government's attorney argued that by having a girl stay overnight Carter compromised the reputation of the FBI. The decision in the case hasn't been rendered as yet and of course there is much to be said for both sides.

To me the fault lies neither with Carter nor the FBI. The blame should be placed on the military who allow our American boys to go around necking, spooning and smooching, knowing full well that once a GI goes down that path it is almost impossible for him to return to live a clean, healthy, normal life in the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Our GIs receive absolutely no instruction on the evils of petting. Most of them are led to believe that premarital necking is a good thing, and I'm ashamed to say that in some extreme cases soldiers and sailors have been known to stay up all night with a girl. Is it no wonder that with this type of training the discharged GI is unable to adjust to the civilian life where the code of behavior of American men and women is so different?

The mistake, it seems to me, is that our military services are discharging our men without thought to the way they're going to behave when they get out. There should be some sort of course given to every GI before he is discharged. He must be instructed on how to kick his petting habits. He should be put in a decompression tank for two weeks so the shock of giving up necking would not be too tough on his nervous system. Eventually the GI would realize that what is socially acceptable in the service does not necessarily carry over to civilian life.

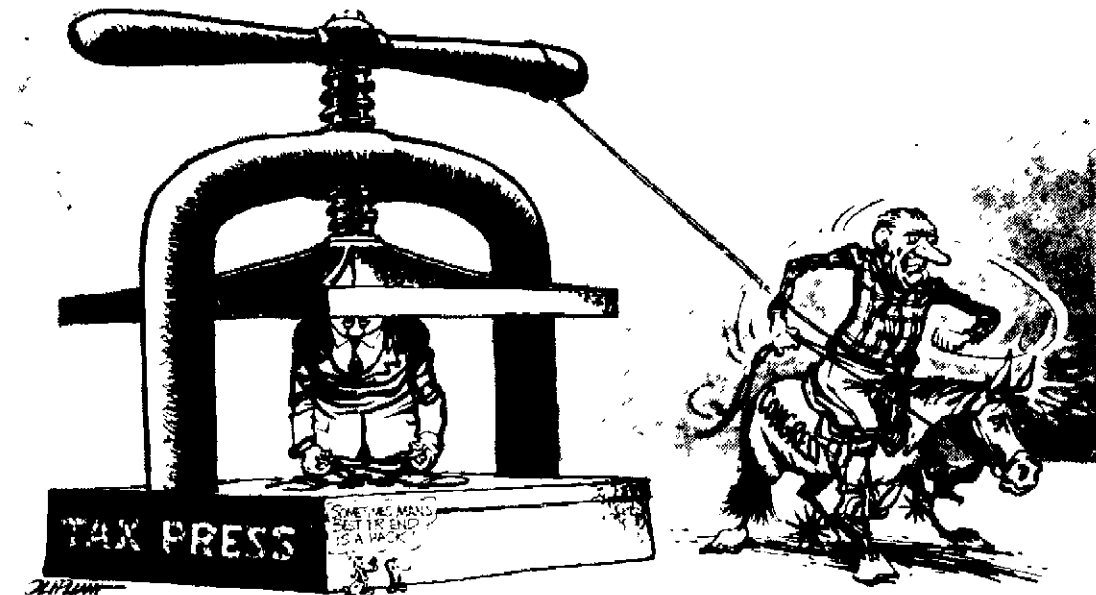

I speak with personal knowledge and great sympathy for Carter's cause. The only reason that I'm not an FBI agent myself is that I could never stop smooching once I got my discharge from the U. S. Marine Corps at the end of World War II.

within his own party, the administration of party policies, and a general overseeing of party matters statewide. Who then is "carrying the ball" on the criticism or support of the governmental item, or as just cited — a piece of legislation? You'll find that this ball is being carried directly by the "officials" concerned — not by the "unofficial" political leaders of the party.

For example, much more weight is carried by an utterance from the "majority floor leader" of the House of Representatives (who enjoys an official governmental status) than a blip by a state chairman whose only claim to fame (partisan of course) is political leadership!

In the current legislative hoodown virtually the entire load of Republican "pro" debate in the public prints on matters legislative has been carried on by the Republican Shafer Administration itself and legislative Republicans.

On the Democratic "anti" side the ball has been carried almost exclusively by legislative Democrats, particularly those this session in the House of Representatives who have in addition to the "official" status as members of the Legislature, the powerpack of near-control in back of them in the House!

OAS Can Rise or Remain

WASHINGTON — The Pan American foreign ministers, meeting in Washington this week, have an opportunity to boost the prestige of the Organization of the American States so that it may rival — or even surpass — the effectiveness of the United Nations. Or they can let it get bogged down in the slough of complacency again. Which way they go will depend on whom they elect as OAS secretary general.

They can elect another chair-warmer, as they have now, or another statesman such as Lleras Camargo, ex-president of Colombia, or Carlos Davila, ex-president of Chile. Both made the Pan American Union a powerful force for better understanding and peace.

Several excellent candidates are available for the secretary-generalship, including Walter Guevara Arze, brilliant Bolivian foreign minister, and Marcos Falcon Briceño, former foreign minister of Venezuela who helped pilot that country through one of its most difficult periods after the Perez Jimenez dictatorship.

However, the ex-president of Ecuador, Galo Plaza, has by far the most experience in handling world trouble spots. He has been drafted by the United Nations as a trouble-shooter in Cyprus, in Lebanon when President Eisenhower landed troops there, and in the Congo.

Quite recently Galo Plaza went to Haiti, another potential trouble spot, to try to head off trouble before it breaks. The confidential plan which he recommended to the OAS is now partially in effect.

What President Johnson and the Pan American presidents he conferred with last April are resolved to do is to prevent riots and war before they come to a boil. Galo Plaza is skilled at this.

His chief handicap is that he was born in New York, studied at the Universities of California and Maryland. This makes him pro-USA in the eyes of Latin America. However, the government of Peru, which does not have diplomatic relations with Ecuador, has recognized Galo Plaza's usefulness and said it would not object to him as secretary general of the OAS.

Vice President Humphrey was giving a luncheon for President Giuseppe Saragat of Italy and introduced Sen. John O. Pastore of Rhode Island.

"I have a secret which I hope Senator Pastore will not mind my divulging," said Humphrey. "He was born Giovanni O. Pastore. But, being a good Democrat, he changed his name to John O. Pastore when he came of age."

"You see, if he had left the 'Giovanni' in there his initials would have been GOP!"

The Primary Battlefield

DANANG, South Vietnam — Nothing could be more revealing than that Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's plan for an electronic barrier along the miscalculated demilitarized zone. And what it reveals is the sheer, dismal ignorance that characterizes most discussion of this strange war's problems back in Washington.

This is not to say that McNamara's project may not be useful and effective at some future date, when the whole pattern of the war may change very drastically. The point is, rather, that there is not the remotest possibility of any such barrier being installed, either now or in the future, unless the war's pattern is changed or unless President Johnson and McNamara are ready to call up the reserves.

There is no such possibility, in turn, because here in the 1st Corps area the marines and the local units of the South Vietnamese army (which are excellent, by the way) already are stretched to the very utmost. They have not a man or a gun to spare for the immense task of building an electronic barrier across a long stretch of forbidding mountains rather heavily infested with North Vietnamese troops.

The "trace" — the strip of cleared land running from Gio Linh to Con Thien on the flat coastal plain at the end of the DMZ — required a heavy investment of men and effort. No discoverable marine thinks that the "trace" has paid for the men whose lives were lost to clear it. The electronic barrier may well be vastly better than the "trace." But that will always remain pretty academic until there are forces available to install such a barrier. There are none today.

No forces are available for barrier installation, in turn, because the northern tip of South Vietnam, roughly from Danang to the DMZ, has become the primary battlefield of the whole war since this reporter was here only six months ago. The change occurred just after that visit. The battle continues. And instead of talking about electronic barriers that may or may not exist in the remote future, it is more useful to try to understand the battle's current outlines.

Briefly, the Hanoi war planners took three steps last spring which have changed just about everything in this area except the wonderful courage and tenacity of the marines. First and most important, the Hanoi planners began to exert heavy and persistent pressure on the most northerly province, Quang Tri, with a considerable part of their formerly disengaged home army.

This was not an absolute innovation. Last year, the home army's 324th Division invaded across the western end of the DMZ, only to be thrown back with fearful losses. But now the reconstituted 324th Division, the 325th Division and the approximate equivalent of a third division made up of the 270th Regiment and other elements have begun to be employed simultaneously. Their pressure continues, moreover, and is growing greater.

This has drawn off for the defense of the DMZ no less than seven Marine battalions and a special landing force. Although Gen. William C. Westmoreland has somewhat reduced the area of direct Marine responsibility, the heavy commitment on the zone plus the obvious need to defend a whole series of fixed points like Danang have left the marines with no real margin of power.

Beyond the essentials noted above, the able new Marine commander, Lt. Gen. Robert E. Cushman, has no men to spare. Indeed, the event may well prove that he has not enough men for the defense of the zone itself, when and if maximum enemy effort develops there. For this very reason, the "Indian country" — the part of the 1st Corps area where the enemy can operate with relative freedom — has grown greater and greater in total extent.

To exploit this result, the Hanoi war planners took to diverting to the 1st Corps area the lion's share of their total southward flow of replacements. This was intended to beef up the main force units and local force battalions operating in the provinces just below the DMZ. Step two finally was reinforced by step three, which was the introduction of certain new weapons.

The AK-47 Russian assault rifle has given the enemy's main and local forces substantial firepower superiority over the South Vietnamese army and militia, which are mainly armed with carbines. A Russian anti-tank rocket has been introduced with devastating effect, since it can destroy any of the bunkers so toilsomely built to protect province towns, district headquarters and the like.

Other new weapons, like the 122-mm. rocket, also deserve mention. But the main point is that the enemy's main and local forces now enjoy significant new advantages. This explains the rash of successful attacks on province towns, including three big jail breaks, and the concurrent rash of lesser operations, again successful, against a series of district headquarters. Altogether the situation in the 1st Corps area is a bit hairy, as the marines say, and it may well get hairier.

It may well get hairier simply because the Hanoi war planners have so obviously been executing a long-term plan. It was probably started last winter and is due to culminate in a really major battle on the DMZ this autumn when the local monsoon season is on largely grounds U.S. airpower.

The cost of the plan to North Vietnam already has been enormous. If the plan fails in the end, that failure may perhaps be decisive. Watch the DMZ for the outcome and, above all, do not expect the outcome to be affected by electronic barriers or other contraptions. Marine bravery and Marine proficiency are all that can be relied on.

SYLVIA PORTER

Now 200 Million Of Us

In four to six weeks from now, the U. S. population will cross the historic 200,000,000 mark. This is 20,000,000 more Americans than there were as recently as 1960. This is the equivalent of adding in less than eight years the combined populations of the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, North Dakota, Nebraska, Delaware, West Virginia, Montana, Arkansas, Colorado, Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Nevada, Alaska and Hawaii. This is the equivalent of adding in less than 12 months, another Oregon or Colorado.

It took the U. S. 350 years to get to the 100,000,000 population mark. It has taken the U. S. 52 years to get to the 200,000,000 mark. It will take the U. S. as little as 30 years to get to the 300,000,000 mark.

The figures in themselves are fascinating. But far more fascinating are the trends just under the statistical surface and what they imply. For instance:

+ Our population is by no means growing at an even rate throughout the country — and in recent years more than four-fifths of the increase has been in our already horribly congested major metropolitan areas. Two-thirds of our growth has occurred in just 10 states. Our city planners, road builders, poverty fighters and pollution abaters already admit they are overwhelmed by the enormity of their jobs. What's in store for them tomorrow will boggle their imaginations.

+ In 1960 there were 4,700, 000 American girls in the key marrying 18 to 21 age group. Next year there will be 7,000, 000 of them. The first tidal wave of 1,000,000 extra World War II babies will reach the 20-year age mark this year. What size families they will choose to have is one of the most important economic questions of this era. Their answer will determine whether our total population in 1985 — when most of them will have had their last child — will be a barely manageable 242,000,000 or an explosive 275,000,000.

+ Dramatic improvements now are taking place in our infant mortality rates. Until recently the U. S. ranked 15th among major nations in infant mortality rates — a dismal record, but nevertheless a factor which has tended to reduce the rate of our overall population growth.

Despite these powerful factors, the U. S. overall population growth rate today is in a perceptible decline. Our national birth rate has dropped from 26.6 (births per 1,000 population) in 1947 to 18.4 today — a low unmatched since the depression 1930s. Our overall population growth rate has dropped from 1.8 per cent a year in 1956 to 1.09 per cent.

Why? The probable explanation is that today's marrying generation favors the two-to-three child family versus the three-to-four-child family of the 1950s. Our 20-year-old war babies want to protect their own children from the overcrowded classrooms, the summer job struggle, the college entrance competition which has been their lifetime experience. They are certainly also aware of the high cost of raising children. The cost of raising one child until age 18 is now $23,000 — not to mention the $10,000 or more it can cost to put a child through college.

Meanwhile, government-approved birth control measures are spreading fast in the U. S. According to one recent survey, only 14 per cent of American couples do not use some form of fertility control.

Would slower population growth hurt U. S. business? Emphatically NO, says Dr. Joseph J. Spengler, an economist who has studied this subject extensively. "In the future, economic growth will depend mainly upon invention, innovation, technical progress and capital formation. It is high time that businessmen cease looking upon the stork as a bird of good omen."

CASTS BALLOT

Beneath a portrait of himself as a World War II general, French president Charles de Gaulle casts his ballot Sunday at the polls in his home village. DeGaulle and his wife were among 15 million French voters summoned to the polls for the local elections.

French Communists Win Historic Vote

By HENRY TANNER
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
PARIS—The Communists for the first time in French history have won control of a General Council, or regional assembly. They won 19 out of 34 seats in the Council of Seine-Saint-Denis, an industrial suburb northeast of Paris in the first round of the local election Sunday. They are certain to pick up at least four more seats in the run-off next Sunday.

The Communists already control most of the city administrations in the department of Seine-Saint-Denis and occupy all but one of its nine seats in the National Assembly.

A majority of 23 or 24 on the 34-seat council will make their political control of the department complete and virtually permanent.

The Communists generally emerged as the single most important winners in Sunday's election. The Gaullists, however, also stand a chance to improve their relatively weak representation in the regional assemblies in Sunday's run-off.

This is part of what observers here call the "polarization" of French politics — the emergence of two large rival movements, the Gaullists and the combined left, at the expense of all smaller independent formations.

Yesterday's Communist success was thought to be due chiefly to four reasons:

—First, the Communists tried harder than anybody else. In contrast to the Gaullists and other major parties they had a candidate for every single seat.

—Secondly, the Communist organization in the Communist district of Paris is far stronger than that of any other political party.

—Thirdly, social and economic discontent in both the cities and the countryside has worked in the Communists' favor. French farmers are disappointed with the results of the common market from which they had expected great immediate benefits.

The urban voters may have remembered that commuter fares on the railroad and subway have been increased by 40 to 60 per cent while some Paris bus rides have gone up by as much as 300 per cent.

Recent government ordinances broadened the social security system to include more people but at the same time increased payroll withholding taxes and reduced a number of benefits.

—And fourth, the Communists have become "respectable" in the eyes of the French electorate. The average voter is no longer afraid of them and no longer regards them as a satellite of a foreign power.

The latter development, independent observers agree, is at least partly due to the foreign policy of Gen. de Gaulle and his insistence of close Soviet-French relations.

Rocky Likely to Be 'Favorite Son'

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK—A movement to name Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller New York's "favorite son" candidate for President at next year's Republican convention has gained wide support, with the governor himself acquiescing, according to well-placed political sources.

The party's state chairman, Charles A. Schoenbeck, said yesterday that such a tactic was a "definite possibility" but said no decision had been made. Leslie Sote, the governor's press aide, issued a statement saying:

"Should this occur, it is purely a technical situation to give maximum strength to the unity and effectiveness of the delegation at the convention. This in no way indicates any change in the governor's position of non-candidacy."

Nevertheless, the development appeared to mean that Rockefeller had moved a step closer to having his name go before the convention, if only as a "favorite son."

Last June, Rockefeller took the first such step when he said that "as a last resort" he might be willing to be New York's "favorite son." But he stressed then, as he has for many months, that under no circumstances would he be an actual candidate in the running for the nomination itself.

Last week, the governor gave a new emotional overlay to this stance by saying that he had passed a psychological turning point in his life that resulted in his having "no ambition—no drive—to get in this thing again."

Qualified observers saw two main reasons behind the reported switch of Rockefeller from "last resort" to likely "favorite son."

Insurance Agents Strike Prudential in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Some agents for Prudential Insurance Co. struck the firm's offices in Pittsburgh yesterday. National union officials said it was a prelude to a nationwide strike by 10,000 agents.

The agents set up picket lines in the Pittsburgh area after negotiations between the Insurance Workers International Union broke off talks with Prudential in Washington Sunday midnight.

The union didn't call a strike, but the men walked out in Pittsburgh, anyway.

"It's perfectly all right," said international Vice President Joseph Pollack when informed in Washington of the strike in Pittsburgh.

"That's what they are all going to be doing as soon as the executive board goes through the formality of an official strike call," he said.

The agents want their commissions raised, upping their average weekly salary by $34 to $200. The union says the raise offered by the company is worth $2 per week.

Catholic School is Different

YORK, Pa. (AP)—Pupils at St. Joseph's Elementary School here may not have noticed it yesterday, but their school was a little different than any others in the state of Pennsylvania and, probably, the nation.

St. Joseph's parishioners had elected the first laymen to a newly created school board, departing from the Roman Catholic tradition of priest and nun-dominated schools.

The five men, elected Sunday, will serve along with the parish pastor, the Rev. Vincent J. Topper, and school principal, Sister Justine Mary, as the school's policy-making and governing body.

What's more, according to by-laws approved by parishioners earlier this year, only a layman can serve as board president.

A total of 540 ballots were cast by the parishioners Sunday and, in some cases, their non-Catholic spouses. This, too, was considered a departure from past attitudes.

The five include an insurance broker, a public school teacher, a newspaperman, a warehouse manager and a business executive.

Father Topper said other parishes in the United States have advisory boards on school affairs but none elect boards with policy-making powers.

At St. Joseph's, the seven-member board will be responsible for the 800-pupil school's budget, personnel, and maintenance and purchase of books and equipment.

MAHAN MOTORS — 750 Market St.

Either we're charging too little, or everyone else is charging too much.

Rambler American. The only U.S. car that could stop you from buying an import.

At a price very close to the leading import, the American seats six people instead of four.

It gives you nearly twice as much room in the trunk and more than twice as much engine under the hood.

Like the imports, the American doesn't change its style every year, gets about 20 miles on a gallon of regular gas.

Unlike some imports, it never gives you the feeling that you're driving a toy.

Rebel. America's most underrated car.

The Rebel 550 Hardtop is the lowest priced intermediate sized hardtop in America.

It looks sporty, drives sporty and still gives you all the things that most people buy a car for.

The Rebel—Hardtop, Wagon, Sedan or Convertible, V8 or 6—is everything we think a car should be.

Before you pay more for an intermediate, make sure you get as much.

Ambassador. The car with air conditioning as standard equipment.

Air conditioning has been around for a long time, but so far only a few companies—the people who make

Rolls Royce for one—have had the good sense to include it in their cars at no extra cost.

We're another.

We just don't understand why someone should be asked to pay a lot of money for a luxury car and then be asked to pay over $300 more for the luxury of air conditioning.

Introducing the Javelin.

Although we've always had the reputation for making sensibly priced, well-built cars, we've never had the reputation for making hot, sporty cars.

We'll soon have the reputation for making hot, sporty cars.

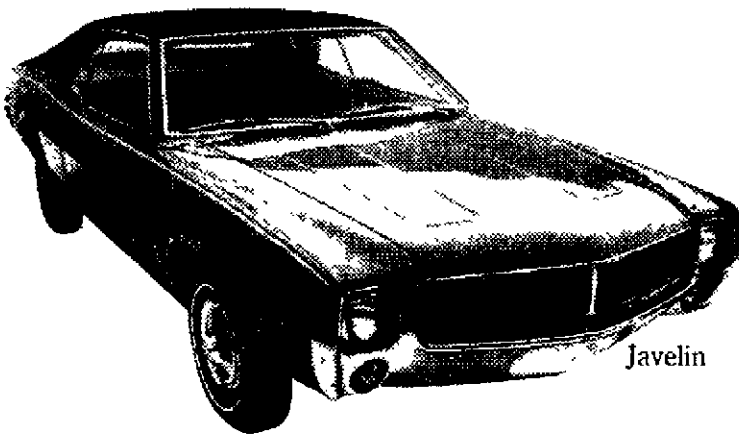

The front and rear bumpers on the Javelin are massive. Unlike thin blade bumpers, these give the car a rich, racy look.

The side windows on the Javelin are solid sheets of curved glass, without vents to break up its fast lines.

The Javelin SST comes with wheel discs, special exterior trim, reclining bucket seats and a woodgrain steering wheel, all standard.

And all for a lower price than the other sporty hardtops.

Influential Panel Wants China in UN

WASHINGTON — Communist China's test explosion of a hydrogen bomb this summer makes it "more urgent" than ever for the United States to support Peking's membership in the United Nations, a panel of influential businessmen, scholars and former government officials declared yesterday.

The 26-member panel issued a report recommending membership in the U.N. General Assembly for both Communist China and Nationalist China and, if Peking accepted this arrangement, giving China's security council seat to the Communist regime.

The group, sponsored by the United Nations Association of the United States of America, is headed by Robert V. Roosa,

Shapp Acquires Interest in

Radio Station

GREENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — The president of a Greensburg radio station with franchises for community antenna systems in 16 Westmoreland County municipalities announced yesterday that Milton Shapp has acquired a major interest in the station.

Shapp founded The Jerrold Corp. in Philadelphia and built the electronics firm into a multi-million-dollar business before selling his interests when he ran for governor unsuccessfully as a Democrat.

Melvin A. Goldberg, president of WHJB of Greensburg, did not specify how much Shapp invested in the station.

Commercial and educational stations in Altoona, Johnstown, Pittsburgh, Steubenville, Ohio, and Wheeling, W.Va., will share the cable being installed for WHJB, Goldberg said.

former undersecretary of the treasury, and Frederick S. Beebe, chairman of Newsweek Inc., and the Washington Post Company.

It includes ten business and professional leaders, 12 university or foundation officials or academicians specializing in Communist affairs, three ranking former diplomats, and one labor leader.

In a hotel news conference here, Beebe said that if the U.S. government persists in its present opposition to Peking's membership, "there is a substantial danger" that Communist and Afro-Asian nations will eventually succeed in voting the Communist regime into the U.N. and excluding the nationalist government entirely.

Beebe and the other panelists, who made similar recommendations last fall, pressed them with greater urgency now as a result of events in the meantime.

The "confusion" and change underway in China, the panel declared, "create an impelling need for the world outside to make clear to any emergent Chinese leadership that it can, if it chooses, make a new start toward orderly participation in the United Nations and world affairs."

Charles W. Yost, former deputy chief of the American delegation to the U.N., asserted that the absence of the Peking regime had "handicapped" the international organization in dealing with such vital issues as arms control and the Vietnam war.

"No one thinks it's going to be easy to even extend the invitation (to Peking) or to bring Peking in on acceptable terms, or even to live with them once they are in," said Yost. "Nevertheless, the importance of Communist Chinese membership outweighs the difficulties."

Prostitutes' Arrests Stir Legal Controversy

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK — Police have made 1,300 arrests in the past five weeks in a stepped-up effort to "clear the midtown area of prostitutes," Deputy Commissioner Jacques Nevard said yesterday.

Most of the arrests, which Nevard said "will continue," were made for disorderly conduct or loitering rather than for prostitution.

The arrests have been sharply criticized in recent days by two criminal court judges and attacked as "illegal dragnet" by the New York Civil Liberties Union.

Until yesterday, nearly all of the disorderly conduct and loitering complaints were dismissed on the motion of District Attorney Frank S. Hogan's office. But yesterday 30 women were held over for trial at the request of the district attorney's office.

A spokesman for Hogan denied that there had been a policy change, saying that there were stronger legal grounds to hold the women yesterday than in the past. Most of the women charged yesterday were held for loitering, while in the past month the popular ground was disorderly conduct. Apparently loitering will now be the major grounds for arrest.

Despite the denial of a policy change, informed legal sources felt that the police department, embarrassed by the district attorney's dismissals, had finally prevailed upon that office to prosecute the girls.

In explaining the move to disorderly conduct and loitering arrests, Nevard said: "It's unprofitable and uneconomic to make solicitation arrests required to substantiate a prostitution charge."

Stock Prices Rise, Key Issues Strong

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK — Stock prices rose yesterday but the extent of the advance depended on which measure of the market was used.

Fueled by strong gains in such key issues as DuPont, General Motors, Johnson & Johnson and United Aircraft, the Dow-Jones industrial average finished with a strong gain of 8.73 points, putting it at a new 1967 high of 943.08.

Gains for individual issues on the New York Stock Exchange topped losses with only 659 advances against 581 declines.

Actively traded issues on the Big Board were firmly in the winners' circle. Eleven of the 15 most active issues closed with gains and six of them posted increases of a point or more.

The day's list of new highs for the year also was bullish. New highs rose to 133 from 107 on Friday while new lows dipped to 16 from 17 in the previous session.

Volume on the exchange dipped to 10.91 million shares from 11.16 million on Friday. Part of the decline was due to a sharp reduction in the number of large-block trades, which usually indicate transactions by institutional investors.

Du Pont again paced the blue-chip group, following up Friday's advance of 6 1/2% with a gain of 6 1/2%, to 177. During the day, it posted a 1967 high of 179. Actively traded General Motors closed at a new high of 89 1/4, up 2 1/2%. Other big winners included Johnson & Johnson, up 2 3/4%, to 65 3/4%, and United Aircraft, up 2 1/2%, to 89 1/2%.

Selected strength in number of glamour issues helped to carry other market indicators to record highs. The Big Board's composite index closed at a new high of 54.14, up 0.29 points, and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index at 97.59, up 0.59 points. The New York Times combined average closed at 559.08, up 4.55 points.

Market observers pointed to a number of factors contributing to the general uptrend in stock prices. These included spreading public recognition of the inflationary pressures implicit in the current debate in Congress over the need for an increase in income taxes, and Chrysler's report of a sharp increase in new-car sales.

A Wall Street Journal report that American Telephone was launching one of the largest computer programs ever attempted by private industry stirred renewed interest in computer manufacturers. International Business Machines, which soared 3 1/2% last week, moved to a new high of 557 1/2 yesterday and closed with a gain of 10 1/2 at 553. Interest in the stock also was stimulated by Wall Street reports that the company's earnings were expected to show better-than-anticipated results because of increased sales to computer leasing organizations.

American Telephone was the second-most active stock with trades of 144,600 shares, including a block of 25,000 shares at 52 1/2. The stock closed at that price, up 1/2. After the close, the utility announced its plans for complying with the recent order by the Federal Communications Commission that the company reduce its rates on interstate services. Telephone posted the biggest gain among the most active stocks, closing at 112 3/4, up 6 1/2%.

Fairchild Camera was another big gainer on the most active list. It closed at the day's high of 92, up 4 1/2%, on trades of 72,400 shares. The company and General Electric announced yesterday that they had signed a cross-licensing agreement on patents for semiconductor products. G. E. shares closed at 112 1/2, down 1 1/2%.

The American Stock Exchange rolled along in high gear again yesterday too.

Volume remained above the six million share mark, prices moved ahead and the ticker tape lagged as much as 32 minutes behind the pace set by investors.

At the end of the day, turnover had piled up to 6,666,795 shares. This compared with 6,923,260 traded on Friday.

Prices kept step too, with the exchange's index of stock prices moving up nine cents to $22.63. Its high for the day was $22.96 and its low was $22.30.

Of the 968 issues that crossed the tape, a broad list, 426 advanced and 372 declined. There were 170 issues that closed unchanged.

Lower-priced issues again dominated the active trading list. In first place was Associated Oil & Gas which added 3/4 at 4 3/4 on a volume of 255,500 shares. It was followed by Royal American, trading 150,200 shares which closed at 2 1/2, up 3/4.

Gas Heating and Air Conditioning

Foresee a 'Weatherproof City'

For decades architects have dreamed the "impossible" dream of a germ-free, weather-proof, uncongested city where people would live in clean, fresh air—relatively safe from thousands of air pollutants in our present cities.

Now it appears that the dream may come true in the foreseeable future.

The solution? A dome over the entire city—or at least over its central core. An authority in the field of "controlled environments" says such a dome would make it possible to provide urban society with all the benefits of health, comfort, efficiency, and esthetic delights.

T.W. McLorg, executive vice president of the Canadian Refrigeration & Air Conditioning Association, says that technology has solved the major problems of architecture and climate control.

He tells, for example, how Toronto could be covered with 2,300 small plastic domes each one-quarter of a mile in diameter, joined together and supported by air. Wires in the top would melt snow, which would be converted into water for the city's reservoirs. Apartments would enable air flow to carry off smoke and other impurities, the way a fireplace does, and there would be no difficulty in filtering clean air inward.

The dome would also make it easier to get around town, says McLorg. "Many of the problems which cities make for themselves, especially in terms of traffic congestion, result from the need to carry little enclosures, automobiles, buses, etc. around with us, everywhere we go, to protect us from the elements. If we can all be protected together from wind, rain, and snow, we can enjoy a new order of personal mobility and open the door to many new forms of personal transportation, including such things as moving sidewalks, and off-the-course golf carts. It would be pleasant to go from place to place within the dome, and we might even recapture the art of walking."

Greater all-round efficiency would be achieved by preventing the uncontrolled escape of heat generated industrially and by the bodies of the city's inhabitants themselves.

Cost of the Toronto dome system, McLorg estimates, might approximate $500-million, but savings such as those indicated could make it largely self-supporting.

All a futuristic dream? Some said The Houston Astrodome would never work—and now it is the world's most unique sports arena—heated and air conditioned by a central GAS system.

Now that the problem of conditioning air and supplying it economically have been solved, and the technology for economically enclosing large areas has been developed, it could happen here.

Use of Gas as Heating Fuel Makes Increases

According to a recent survey by the American Gas Association, the use of natural gas for home heating is increasing substantially every year. Over a million homes are installing gas heating systems this year. This figure includes conversions from other fuels as well as new-home construction.

In this area alone, the Pennsylvania Gas Company reports that better than 98 per cent of all new construction this year is heated with gas.

What are the reasons for this swing to gas? Why do purchasers of new homes often specify gas heating. What are women looking for when they discuss heating with their builders or with a representative from the Pennsylvania Gas Company?

The average woman is primarily concerned with the health and comfort of her family. Other considerations are secondary.

Gas heating provides uniform floor-to-ceiling temperatures throughout the house. This eliminates drafty areas and cold spots and helps protect your family from susceptibility to colds. It spells out comfort for a tall husband or a crawling baby because the warmth is consistently the same.

The third consideration is that ever-present worry — cost. In most sections of the country, gas is less expensive than other fuels. The wide availability of natural gas means has done much to bring the costs of this type of heating well within the range of most home owners.

Another factor to consider when thinking about the fuel costs are the fringe benefits. Since natural gas burns completely, there is no residue of smoke and soot. Walls and furniture stay clean much longer. Dirty, greasy film does not gather on window ledges and other hard-to-clean areas. Many gas-fired heating systems are equipped with air filters which remove much of the normal household lint and dust.

Any woman who has had the experience of suddenly running out of fuel on a blustery, blizz rd y day will appreciate the comfort of being assured of a constant source of fuel supply, regardless of weather. Gas delivery is automatic and sure and, because a gas heating system has so few moving parts, the furnace itself ensures a lifetime of carefree, trouble free and worry free service.

Just as a gas range provides instant heat for cooking, a gas heating system will provide instant comfort at the flick of a thermostat. There is no time lag. No "warming up" period.

It is easy to understand why over a million homes — both old and new — have chosen gas as a heating fuel this year.

Booklet Gives Tips

A handy guide to gas indoor climate control, containing factual, useable information for anyone planning to buy a central comfort system (humidifier, air conditioner, and filter units which add on to a Gas furnace) or a new home has been prepared by the Pennsylvania Gas Company.

"Healthful Fresh-Air Comfort . . . Your most advanced Gas System for all-season indoor Climate Control," answers many of the most commonly asked questions about total comfort living with Gas.

Provide Indoor Springtime The Year 'Round ●

SETS TEMPERATURE

"Winter Watchman" works while weather-weary house-holders head for friendlier climes. Honeywell, Inc. has introduced an attractive, compact device that can be set for any temperature within the 30 to 60 degree range. If the temperature should fall below the preset point, "Winter Watchman" will automatically turn on a light to alert neighbors that the heating system is not functioning properly.

'Winter Watchman' Prevents Empty Household Freeze-Up

A new device to assist vacationing homeowners in preventing household plumbing and heating freeze-up during their absence has been introduced by the residential division of Honeywell Inc.

One of the outstanding features of the attractive, compact (3½ by 2½ by 1½ inch) device is the simplicity of its operation. The homeowner plugs the "Winter Watchman" into an AC outlet, plugs a lamp cord into the bottom of the unit and sets the adjustable dial for any desired temperature from 30 to 60 degrees. The lamp connected to the Winter Watchman then is placed in a window that can be conveniently observed by a neighbor or a fuel company representative.

If the temperature in the house falls below the pre-set point, the Winter Watchman automatically turns on the lamp, alerting whomever has agreed to keep an eye on things while the homeowner is away.

The device is equipped with a circuit test button by means of which the system can be checked to determine if it is operative.

The company said the attractively gift packaged Winter Watchman has already proven popular with homeowners as well as with airlines who will use it promotionally to attract winter travelers.

Air Conditioning Now a 'Necessity'

Now recognized as a "necessity" in many areas of the nation, and as the most significant change in the American home since the advent of indoor plumbing, central air conditioning continues to set records.

Despite a depressed home building industry last year, shipments of central air-conditioning equipment in 1966 were up 11 per cent above 1965. And even though home building in the first half of 1967 was depressed, these shipments rose at least another 10 per cent this year.

This is, by most industry standards, a truly remarkable performance, but it is one that air conditioning has grown accustomed to. For the past decade, shipments of "unitary" or central air-conditioning equipment have enjoyed annual increases ranging between 10 and 33 per cent.

The factors which led to the present high popularity of central air conditioning for the home are the desires for comfort, cleanliness, and better health in the home environment.

Home air conditioning is no longer regarded by the public as a luxury. A survey by Lou Harris for "Newsweek" showed that 69 per cent of Americans regard it as a necessity. Among apartment dwellers, this figure is even higher. A study of 5,000 families living in apartments revealed that more than four out of five consider air conditioning necessary.

What has happened to the air-conditioning industry in recent years is the classic American story of a relatively new industry growing rapidly to meet the demand for a worthwhile product.

Neighborhood children had a fine time romping around in the stuff when 20 gallons of powdered detergent spilled on a Duarte, Calif., street and, when hosed away, created a sea of foam. The kids must have thought they were on Cloud 9.

Allenberry Annual

It's too bad that every dedicated outdoorsman from big game hunter to bird watcher couldn't have been present at Allenberry on the Yellow Breeches over the weekend as the Pennsylvania Outdoor Writers met for their annual meeting and election of officers. For I'm quite sure if they would have been there they would have heard some item discussed that fit into their particular interest or hobby.

And just to prove my point I'll give you a couple of examples. The big game hunter would undoubtedly have been enthused to hear Will Johns and Jim Bashline report on the lack of progress the Dodd bill has had to date. And I know the bird watcher would have got a real kick out of the slides Ned Smith used to illustrate his talk on magazine photography.

In the first place, I should add that Will Johns said that the Dodd bill would be out of sub-committee next week and go from there to the full Judiciary Committee. After that it goes to the Commerce Committee. And by the looks of things there isn't too much chance that an anti-gun bill will clear the Congressional red tape this session, but Will urges gunners to keep alert for any fast shuffling that might occur.

And then I might add that Ned Smith asked me to inform the Chuck Neel's that he would be up to visit them in October. And go on from there to tell those who are not familiar with Ned Smith and his work that Ned is just about the top "nature" illustrator in the business today, as well as a fine photographer. He is a little something "special" to me, as Ned did all of the illustrations for a series of sixteen historical articles I did for the Pennsylvania Game News a few years ago.

But getting back to the progress of the Dodd anti-gun bill, anyone could have had even money either way on what the final outcome of this controversial measure will be. Some think that the support it is getting from the administration will sooner or later push it through Congress, but others think that too many politicians know (and have counted among their constituents) the number of gun owners in the country.

But the most intelligent discussion came about when Tom Forbes brought it to the attention of the members that neither the "pros" nor "cons" would eventually decide the gun issue. It would be the public, a presently disinterested majority, that would swing it one way or another in the future. For this reason, Tom said, it is important that the "disinterested" public be informed on both sides of the issue.

Others then pointed out that there are presently two entirely different concepts of what the problem of gun legislation really is. In the big cities the problem is entirely different than it is in rural areas where persons are more likely to own guns for their own protection rather than to molest their neighbors. And it is the difference between the "city" and the "rural" problems, I think, that has the press and officials of states along the eastern seaboard supporting anti-gun laws, while western press and officials are rather definitely against such legislation. Another case of viewpoint and conditions determining the stand each person takes.

During the committee reports I had a chance to talk with Charlie Fox (author, Wonderful World of Trout and Rising Trout) about the good old days when he was editor of the Pennsylvania Angler. This led us around to talking about the sad condition of trout today (truck chasers and cheese fishermen) and what might be done to get the sport back on the right track (according to the views of a couple of old has-beens) before sucker fishing replaced it as the top angling attraction. Didn't make much headway there, but Charlie is sending me some material that's supposed to bring me up to date on suggestions from other sources.

And for those around the area who remember ---I ran into Temp Reynolds at Allenberry and he said that he'd like to be remembered to all the sportsmen up this way. Temp was with the Game Commission (Franklin office) a few years back.

Temp claims he's still in excellent bear country yet, even down there in the southwestern part of the state. To prove he is, he tells of two bear that have been killed on the streets of Philadelphia this past year. One by a trolley car, the other by a motorist. How many have been killed on the streets of Warren? he asks.

Might mention, too---Steve Szalewicz and Lud Haller made it to Allenberry and we had some interesting conversation during "happy hour." I'll report further on this and Allenberry in a future column.

"I also think that it is important for young people in our country to know how to use firearms in the right manner to protect themselves, to protect others, and to learn the legitimate use of firearms."

—U.S. Rep. Frank J. Horton New York

New Yorkers Outrun By Warren Harriers

Warren Area High School's cross country team climbed over the .500 mark for the season yesterday by defeating both Jamestown, N.Y., and Fredonia, N.Y., in a triangular meet at the hilltop course.

The Dragon harriers, competing without the services of Captain Dave Cobb, edged the Red Raiders in the two-way scoring system, 26 to 29 and posted a 24-31 victory over Fredonia's runners to boost their record to 3-2.

Rocket JVs Fall 12-0 To Dragons

TITUSVILLE — Warren's junior varsity gridgers gained some measure of revenge for Saturday's loss to Titusville by blanking the Little Rockets, 12-0 in a game played under the lights here last night.

Two scoring passes, one in each of the first two periods, by sophomore quarterback Jeff Fralley accounted for all the points in the contest.

In the first quarter, Fralley teamed up with sophomore tight end Dana Pusateri for a touchdown on a play that covered 50 yards. Junior split end Jim Mock was on the receiving end of another Fralley scoring strike in the second stanza, this time for 30 yards. Both points after touchdowns were missed.

The Little Dragons had several other opportunities to score, but lost the ball on fumbles. The Blue and White's defense, meanwhile, was doing a good job of containing the Little Rockets' attack.

Next Monday, the Warren Junior varsity hosts Kane's jayvees for a 4 p.m. game on the WAHS field.

The Brokenstraw Fish & Game Club will conduct a Hunter Safety Class starting Thursday Sept. 28 at 7 p.m. Classes will be held at the clubhouse on Mead Run Road.

All hunters eligible to hunt this coming season are invited to attend these classes, especially those reaching the age of 12 this year.

The course will run three weeks with an examination given the last night. There will also be some shooting on the club's trap range after the examination.

These courses are sponsored by the Pennsylvania Game Commission and the National Rifle Association along with the club.

North Clarion

Blasts Sparta

North Clarion was victorious over Spartansburg yesterday in UAVL baseball, 14-6. B. Banner hurled the win for North Clarion. Gary Linden and Jimmy Cross shared the loss for Sparta.

Banner bashed a three-bagger while Lolley and Fiegl each collected a double in the winning cause.

The fallen Spartans got doubles from Galen Goodwill, David Boythe, Brent Allen and Gary Linden. Sparta now carries a 1-3 slate in the UAVL.

Cobb was bothered by a blister, but junior Larry Maxwell elected to run in his place, the first meet of the season for the veteran Blue and White harrier, who finished tenth.

Sophomore Randy Brown, who continues to surprise Coach Andy Randas, was first across the finish line for the Dragons, taking third with a 14-minute flat clocking, just seven seconds behind winner Tim Hadley of Fredonia. Jamestown's Jim Colby took second place in 13:54.

Other top finishers for Warren included senior Jim Grillo, sixth; soph. Dan Pierce, seventh; soph. Bruce Myers, ninth; junior Grover Cleveland, sixteenth and junior Dave Dickerson, nineteenth.

Thursday, the Dragons take to the road to meet McDowell's harriers. Results of yesterday's meet were as follows:

1. Tim Hadley (F) 13:53
2. Jim Colby (J) 13:54
3. Randy Brown (W) 14:00
4. Jim Modisher (F) 14:14

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL ROUNDUP:

Idle BoSox, ChiSox Gain Ground As Twins, Tigers Both Defeated

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — The California Angels dropped Minnesota into a first-place tie with Idle Boston yesterday by defeating the Twins 9-2 on a 15-hit attack and strong relief pitching by Jack Hamilton and Curt Simmons.

The Twins and Red Sox both have 90-68 records with four games remaining. The third-place Chicago White Sox, also not scheduled, moved to within one-half game of the American League co-leaders.

The fourth-place Detroit Tigers blew an opportunity to gain ground when they bowed to the New York Yankees 2-0 last night. The Tigers trail the Twins by 1½ games.

Jim Fregosi and Rick Reichardt each collected three hits in the first four innings, when the Angels cuffed Jim Merritt and Dave Boswell for seven runs.

Fregosi's safeties included a two-run triple in the second inning when California scored three times to take a 4-0 lead.

California belted Merritt, now 13-7, for six hits and four runs in two innings. Consecutive singles by Fregosi, Reichardt and Bubba Morton got the Angels a run in the first.

Angel starter George Brunet and Aurelio Rodriguez singled ahead of Fregosi's triple, sliced into the right field corner in the second.

Fregosi then scored as Reichardt's wind-blown popup into short right fell for a single and Jerry Zimmerman dropped the ball for an error on Tony Oliva's throw to the plate.

The Angels added three more runs in the fourth with four straight singles off Boswell—by Fregosi, Reichardt, pinch hitter Jimmie Hall and Don Mincher—plus Roger Repoz' pinch sacrifice fly off Jim Grant, who relieved Boswell.

Rodriguez singled home two more Angel runs in the seventh off Jim Roland.

The Twins chased Brunet in the fourth inning, with successive singles by Bob Allison, Rod Carew, pinch hitter Rich Rollins and Ted Uhlaender producing two runs.

Hamilton relieved Brunet and squelched that rally by getting pinch hitter Frank Kostro on a fly ball and Zoilo Versalles on a grounder back to the mound. Hamilton, who got the victory and is 9-6, also pitched his way out of a jam in the fifth. The Twins loaded the bases with one out on singles by Cesar Tovar and Oliva, plus a walk to Allison. But Carew and Rollins flied out.

Simmons relieved Hamilton, who was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh, and finished up.

Yanks-Tigers

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Downing pitched a four-hitter and started a two-run rally with a walk as the New York Yankees jolted Detroit's pennant-hopeful Tigers 2-0 last night.

The loss prevented the Tigers from gaining valuable ground on first place Minnesota and Boston. Minnesota lost to California 9-2 yesterday afternoon, while Boston was idle. Detroit is fourth, 1½ games behind with only five left to play. Third-place Chicago also was idle.

Downing, who won his 14th game, a career high, was sharp all the way. He set down the first 11 batters in order before Al Kalline dropped a fourth-inning single in front of Roy White in right field for Detroit's first hit.

By then, the Yankees had the lead. Earl Wilson, 22-11, walked Downing with one out in the third and it proved his undoing.

After Horace Clarke bounced out with Downing moving to second, rookie Jerry Kenney singled to center, scoring the first run. Mickey Mantle followed with a walk and Joe Pepitone singled to right, scoring Kenney with the second run of the inning.

Dragon Golf Team Falls To Rockets

TITUSVILLE — Warren Area High School's golf team went down to defeat for the first time this season here yesterday. The Dragons whipped Franklin in the triangular match, 12½ to 2½, but lost to the undefeated Titusville linksters, 10½ to 5½.

Mike Brady of the Rockets fired an 81 for medalist honors, but Warren's Doug Swanson rallied for three consecutive birdies on the back nine for a 38 after taking a 45 over the first nine holes.

The Dragons play their final match of the fall season on Thursday at Meadville, another three-way event with Rocky Grove included. The meet was originally scheduled for last week, but was postponed due to rain.

The Warren team, under Coach Joe Shantz, expects to be a top contender for the Section II Tournament crown in the spring, where they will face another battle with Titusville.

Results of yesterday's match were as follows:

- Matt Voigt (W) 41-42—83, Mike Brady (T) 41-40—81, Frank Ellis (F) 42-43—85, Larry Anderson (W) 43-44—86, Steve Hampton (T) 41-41—82, Pat Scurry (F) 55-55—110, Doug Swanson (W) 45-38—83, Donald Warner (T) 47-47—94, Don Long (F) 51-47—98, Larry Roth (W) 47-48—95, Terry Allan (T) 42-43—85, Dennis Brown (F) 52-48—100, Jon Sealster (W) 46-46—92, Paul Twitchell (T) 44-46—87, Craig Walbrown (F) 56-57—113.

That was enough for Downing, who struck out six and walked two. Kalline singled again in the ninth and the only other Tiger hits were Bill Freehan's one-out single in the seventh and Jim Price's pinch single in the eighth.

A spectacular play by White saved Downing from trouble in the seventh after Freehan's hit. Don Wert lined a drive that seemed headed for the right center field alley but White dashed far to his right and made a sliding catch, robbing Detroit of a run and Wert of a possible triple.

It was the second straight loss for the Tigers, who were beaten by a three-run ninth-inning rally in Washington Sunday. Detroit plays in New York again today and then returns home to finish the season with a four-game series against California.

Orioles-Senators

BALTIMORE (AP) — Curt Motton's run-scoring single in the ninth inning gave the Baltimore Orioles a 3-2 victory over Washington last night.

Reliever Dave Baldwin hit Brooks Robinson with a pitch to open the ninth and Robinson raced to third on Curt Blefary's single before Motton delivered the winning hit.

The Senators, blanked on three hits through seven innings by rookie Dave Leonard, rallied for two runs in the eighth to tie the score.

Successful singles by Fred Valentine, Hank Allen and Frank Howard produced the first run and the other scored on Frank Coggins' roller to first baseman Blefary.

Paul Blair singled in the first inning, moved to third on a wild pitch attempt by Senators starter Dick Bosman and scored on a single by Brooks Robinson. Dave May's triple and a sacrifice fly by Blair gave the Orioles another run in the sixth.

Robinson set a major league record for third basemen when he recorded his 406th assist in the sixth inning. Harlan Clift of the old St. Louis Browns set the old mark of 405 in 1937.

Giants-Mets

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jim Hart's 10th inning single drove in the winning run as the San Francisco Giants nipped the New York Mets 2-1 yesterday.

Hart, who had the Giants' first hit in the seventh inning against New York starter Danny Frisella, lined his game-winning hit off Dick Selma, who relieved Frisella at the start of the 10th. Tito Fuentes opened the 10th with a single, moved up on a sacrifice and raced home on the hit.

Frisella allowed just two hits in the nine innings he pitched. Ron Swoboda's seventh-inning home run gave the Mets a 1-0 lead but the Giants tied it in the bottom half of the inning on pinch hitter Willie Mays' sacrifice fly.

Astros-Phils

HOUSTON (AP) — Joe Morgan doubled home the tying run with two out in the ninth inning and then scored on Jim Wynn's single, giving the Houston Astros a 4-3 victory over Philadelphia last night.

Phillies reliever Dick Farrell took a 3-2 lead into the ninth and struck out the first two batters before Sonny Jackson singled to left. Morgan then laced the tying double to center and Wynn delivered his winning single to right.

The Phillies snapped a 1-1 tie on Gene Oliver's two-run double in the sixth after two-out singles by Rick Joseph and John Callison.

Farrell replaced starter Chris Short in the bottom of the sixth after Ron Brand's run-scoring single closed the gap.

Tidoute Posts League Victory

Tidoute took advantage of Pleasantville pitcher Greg Holtz' wildness yesterday to whip the Falcons, 5-2 on only two hits.

The Bulldogs scored all their runs in the third frame, highlighted by a double by Bill Shields. Two bases-loaded walks, a hit-batsmen and another free pass allowed four runs to score after Shields had driven the first home.

Coast Clashes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers and Pittsburgh Pirates were tied 1-1 going into the 10th inning of their game last night.

The Dodgers, 27th extra-inning game of the season tied the National League record set by the 1946 Boston Braves.

AND SOMETIMES A TRAGEDY

Skydiving: a Joy, a Headache

NEW YORK (AP) — Skydiving, a sport loved by thousands, has taken a tragic turn in the United States this year.

The death count, including a record single disaster last month, already exceeds that on the previous season by 34 in 1967.

The 41st death was a bizarre one, when Louis Sebastian LeGrand of France descended safely by parachute from a high tower.

Capt. Albert Berry made the first successful parachute jump from an airplane, in 1912 at St. Louis, Mo.

Today, parachuting has become a sport for thousands. They leap from planes, guide their fall with body movements, go through gymnastic maneuvers and delay opening their chutes until the last possible moment in an effort to land on a target.

The sport's development has been a boon to some industries and a joy to thrill-seekers. It also has been a headache to some government agencies, and a tragedy to some participants.

One of the most tragic episodes in the sport's history involved the Florida couple, John and Rickie Wasik.

On Sunday, Aug. 22, Rickie, 22 and making her first jump, plunged to her death near Rockledge, Fla., airport. On Sunday, jumping from the same plane at the same hour, John leaped to his death with hands held in attitude of prayer rather than pulling the ripcord.

Friends said Wasik, an aerospace writer at Cape Kennedy, Fla., had blamed himself for his wife's death.

U.S. sports parachuting had its worst disaster last Aug. 27, when 18 skydivers plummeted into Lake Erie and 16 of them drowned.

Yesterday, the National Transportation Safety Board blamed the pilot, and instructions by a Federation Aviation Agency traffic controller. It said the pilot should have ended the mission because of cloud cover, and that the controller's erroneous radar identification of the jump craft resulted in its being off position.

He opposed licensing of individual jumpers, however, saying he thinks existing regulations are adequate. Licensing a parachutist would be like licensing a skier or a pedestrian, he said.

Istel, a former Marine officer who became a world parachuting champion, says there is a beauty in jumping "not to be confused with psychedelic joy, but rather to the sensation of communing with nature that one has on a mountain or on a wooded ski trail or in looking at fish under the sea."

The parachutists themselves, "all of whom were experienced and aware of the hazards of jumping under the prevailing conditions, were not without fault," the board added.

Retired Brig. Gen. William T. Ryder, America's first commander of paratroopers, observed after the accident that skydivers leaping from planes above clouds are like motorists driving at night without lights.

And Jacques Andre Istel, founder of the U.S. Parachute Association and lifetime president of the association and the International Parachuting Commission, said that if a parachutist jumps through clouds, he violates federal regulations, association regulations and "principles of both common sense and morality."

With the regulations and improvements in parachute technology and jumping techniques, why the deaths?

Gen. Ryder thinks it's a matter of two basics: Manoverestimating his capacity, and a lack of adequate training.

Since Paris-born Istel, 38, gave up a junior partnership on Wall Street and started Parachutes Inc., in 1957, he has pushed for federal control over standards of instruction and the qualifications of instructors.

Lynda Bird to Wed Capt. Robb Dec. 9

(AP) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — Lynda Bird Johnson will marry Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb on Dec. 9 in the East Room of the White House.

The 23-year-old Miss Johnson, the seventh daughter of a President to be married in the White House, will be given away by her father in a Protestant Episcopal service, the White House announced yesterday.

There will be 14 attendants. The time of the wedding, number of guests and other details will be announced later.

Indications are that this wedding will be a smaller affair than was the marriage of Miss Johnson's younger sister, Luci, to Patrick J. Nugent on Aug. 8, 1966, in the Roman Catholic Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, the seventh largest church in the world.

Although billed as a simple family affair, Mrs. Nugent's wedding was attended by 700 guests, with two dozen attendants and a 100-voice choir.

The First Lady's press secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, said yesterday that the size of the East Room and the fact that Miss Johnson is a sister wedding will "affect the size of the guest list."

Robb, the 30-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Robb of Milwaukee, is an adjutant at the Washington Marine barracks.

Mrs. Nugent, now of Austin, Tex., will be mother of honor and her husband, a junior executive at the Johnson family-owned radio and TV station KTCB in Austin, will be one of the groomsmen.

Warren Lynn Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warfield Smith of San Antonio, Tex., Miss Johnson's best friend and former University of Texas roommate, will be maid of honor.

Best man will be Marine Capt. William Douglas Davidson, a roommate of Robb's, who is stationed at Marine Headquarters here. The son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Davidson of Kershaw, S.C., Davidson is a White House aide and has dated Miss Smith.

One attendant, Marine Capt. Peter R. McCarthy, now serving in Vietnam, will attend the wedding during a 30-day leave. Yesterday's announcement of the date of Miss Johnson's ceremony came just two weeks after the surprise announcement of her engagement to the Marine captain. The couple started dating about four months ago.

Miss Johnson and Robb were vacationing at Acapulco, Mexico, when the wedding date was announced yesterday. Robb expects to leave for duty in Vietnam sometime in March.

Bishop McGarry to Observe Silver Jubilee at Mission

The Most Rev. Urban E. McGarry, TOR, DD, LLD, a native of Warren, Bishop of the Diocese of Bhagalpur, India, will observe the silver jubilee of his ordination with a Mass of Thanksgiving Oct. 4, 1967, in the Franciscan Mission in Bihar, India.

The Very Rev. Jude Gleeson, TOR, Minister Provincial of the Most Sacred Heart Province of St. Francis of Penance, Loretto, Pa. will go to India to co-celebrate the anniversary Mass with His Excellency and three other Jubilarians.

Bishop McGarry was baptized in Holy Redeemer Church in Warren. He attended St. Joseph parochial grade school; public high schools in Warren and Smethport and the Cathedral Prep in Erie.

As a young man he worked for Struthers Wells, Pennsylvania Furnace and Iron and New Process Company.

Bishop McGarry was consecrated as the first Bishop of the new Diocese of Bhagalpur on May 10, 1965, in the Cathedral of the Most Blessed Sacrament, Altoona.

The Diocese of Bhagalpur was established by Pope Paul VI in 1965. Located in the State of Bihar, northeast of Calcutta, it has a population of four million Hindus, Moslems and Santal Aboriginal tribesmen.

There are 11,500 Roman Catholics, 13 Catholic churches, 25 mission chapels, 25 grade schools, one high school and 3,500 pupils in attendance.

Also in the diocese are one hospital, 13 dispensaries, two orphanages with 52 orphans, two novitiates: one for men of the Third Order Regular of St. Francis and one for nuns of the Third Order Carmelite Sisters. There is one minor seminary with 17 students with 11 preparing for the priesthood in the Franciscan Third Order Regular and six for the Diocese of Bhagalpur.

Bishop McGarry was born November 12, 1912, in Warren, the son of the late James McGarry and Margaret Farley McGarry, the Franciscan Order of the Third Order Regular in Loretto in 1936.

Inmates Take Overdose of Pills

ERIE — Two Erie County prison inmates who took overdoses of phenobarbital early yesterday were listed in guarded condition at Hamot Hospital.

Ray Vivier and Fred Whitmeyer were among seven who took the drug. Five others, including murderer Royall W. Collins, were released from the hospital following treatment.

Reportedly, one prisoner, a trustee, broke into the prison medicine cabinet and stole the barbiturate. He distributed it to the other six men and all took varying quantities.

The seven were rushed to Hamot by sheriff's deputies after the situation was discovered.

Prison Warden Bruce Reeder has ordered a full investigation into the incident.

Wednesday, October 11 has been chosen by the Kinzua Dam Vacation Bureau for a luncheon meeting at the Penn Harris Hotel in Harrisburg, according to Robert C. Dilks, chairman.

The bureau has invited Governor Raymond Shafer and a number of other state officials and department heads to have lunch that day with a local delegation in what Dilks described as a get-acquainted session.

Senator Richard Frame of Franklin who represents Warren County in Harrisburg is working with the Vacation Bureau in making arrangements for the meeting.

Dilks reported that the local group is staging the affair in order to inform as many of the state officials as possible about the vacation bureau, its purposes, and its plans for the future development of the vacationland.

The bureau is not going to Harrisburg to ask for any specific help at this time, Dilks said. However, since the bureau is a new tourist promotion agency and since the Kinzua Dam is the newest major recreation and tourist area in the state the luncheon has been scheduled to introduce local people and plans to state leaders who are most interested in the tourist industry.

Plans call for the local group of government and business leaders to fly to the capitol in the morning and return in the evening.

Brokenstraw Music Boosters Start 1st Project of Year

A Community Birthday Calendar is the first project of the season for the Brokenstraw Music Boosters as the begin their drive tomorrow for calendar listings throughout the Brokenstraw district.

Topped with a photo of this year's senior high school band, the 1968 calendar will be compiled from birthday and anniversary listings obtained by volunteer workers in a house to house canvass. In addition, many local organizations and church groups will be listed on proper meeting dates.

Twenty-five captains, with the assistance of many workers, will conduct the drive led by Mrs. Gerald Schumacher, chairman, during a two-week period beginning tomorrow and ending Oct. 11.

A uniform fund will be established this year with a portion of the proceeds as a projected goal to extend over a three year period. In the past, funds de-

Salvation Army History Outlined For Rotary Club

Captain Albert Carter, commander of the Warren Salvation Army Corps, was speaker at Warren Rotary Club's yesterday noon meeting at the Blue Manor. He outlined the history and service of the Salvation Army, and expressed appreciation of Rotary support for the summer camp program. Capt. Carter was introduced by Rotarian Jack Hartley.

Ray Anderson was inducted as a new member of Warren Rotary, in a short ceremony. Anderson was a member of Warren Rotary in the 1960's, then of the York Rotary from 1962 to 1967.

Ward Sharp announced Rotary 4-H Achievement night at North Warren Community center Saturday, October 7 at 8:30 p.m.

Rotarians will present awards and recognition to outstanding 4-H members and leaders.

One guest was welcomed: Don Humzinger, Bronson, Mich. Rotary Club.

In a brief ceremony, Dan Walton was presented a past secretary's pin by president Henry Powell, given for this purpose by Dorothy M. Belknap, in memory of her father, the late Percy Belknap, to whom it was presented after he retired in 1947. Mr. Belknap served for ten years as secretary of the Warren Rotary Club. Walton served as secretary from 1956 to 1966.

Captain Albert Carter described the work and history of the Salvation Army, and presented a color motion picture in illustration. He recounted how, although raised in a Baptist family, he decided to enter the service of the Salvation Army while serving in the armed forces at Fort Monmouth, N.J. He had become estranged from attending any church, due to a rebuff on the

84 Attend ASCS Banquet

First Warren County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service banquet for the county and community committees, held at Lander Parish House recently, was attended by 84.

Charles Camp, chairman Warren County ASCS Committee, as master of ceremonies, welcomed guests from the ASCS office staffs from Erie, Crawford, Potter, Clarion, Elk, and Cameron counties.

A special guest was farmer field man for Northwest Pennsylvania, Percy Maston, of Clarion.

Speaker was Robert Hender-shot, of Harrisburg, executive director Pennsylvania State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. His topic: "The Proper Relationship of Agriculture in Today's Market."

A presentation on the background of "Old Glory" was made by F. Lowe Edwards of Columbus.

Prizes donated by Corry Agway, Columbus Milling, Carl Allen, Harry Ludwick, Falconer Agway, Clymer Agway, Sugar Grove Farm Supply, Titusville Agway, Warren National Bank, Boardman's Mill, S. T. Anderson, Youngsville Agway, Russell Flower Gardens and Youngsville Floral Gardens were awarded to those in attendance.

At Seminar

Robert Alspaugh, welding superintendent of Dorcon Inc. in Warren, has just returned from Cleveland, Ohio, where he participated in a week-long seminar with 40 other supervisors and welding specialists from all sections of the United States to study new manufacturing and fabricating cost reduction techniques.

Retired Teachers

The Warren Borough Retired Teachers will host the Forest and Warren County Retired Teachers Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at the Northwest Savings and Loan Hospitality room.

Warren Students Honored

Three Warren Area High School students and one from Corry Area High School are among over 14,000 Semifinalists in the National Merit Scholarship program.

Named were Dean R. Backstrom, Thomas Lauffenberger and David F. Tegeler, Warren and Raymon A. Cookils, Corry. Backstrom is planning on entering pre-law following graduation, Lauffenberger, pre-law and Tegeler, architecture. Cookils will major in music.

The semifinalists represent the most intellectually able high school seniors in the nation and have advanced to the second step in the 1967-68 competition for about 2,900 merit scholarships, valued at more than $8 million.

Students were the highest scorers in their states on the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test given last February in 17,600 schools.

Semifinalists must advance to Finalist standing to be considered for merit scholarships since all winners will be selected from the finalist group. They become finalists by receiving endorsement of their schools, taking a second examination and submitting information about their achievements and interests.

Names of merit scholars in the program will be announced by early May of 1968.

Nine men and six women make up the new attendant-trainee class started at Warren State Hospital this week. The program is different from other training programs at Warren in that it consists of intensive pre-service training for a period of seven weeks before the employee actually begins his regular assignment in one of the hospital's many wards.

First two weeks of the course consist of formal classroom instruction; the remaining five weeks are divided between carefully supervised clinical practice in the mornings on wards where each trainee is assigned to the care of one patient, and classroom discussion in the afternoon of problems met in this care.

Both classroom courses and the supervised clinical practice will emphasize understanding human behavior, with instruction in anatomical, nutritional, physiologic, social, and psychological factors. Audio-visual aids will be extensively used in the course. Miss Harriett Morgan, Director of Nursing Services, is in administrative charge of the program, with Nurse Schue, Miriam Murphy, Kathleen Mahaffey, and Frederick Mack as instructors and clinical supervisors in the classroom and clinical areas.

Hospital Superintendent Robert Israel and Director Arthur Brown are primarily responsible for signing the plan for the program, which is supported by a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health. They are optimistic about the course because it seems likely to improve the readiness of the new employee for his full-time work with patients and also will make the employee eligible sooner than in the past for promotion to the classification of Attendant.

A new class will be started every seven weeks, with a second class scheduled to begin November 13.

Development Meeting Wednesday

Citizens concerned about the future development of the area should plan to attend the public meeting on Area Development at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening in the Warren Community house. It is being sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

Urban renewal, housing, future expansion and development, sewage disposal, and cost of housing for senior citizens will be discussed by a group of seven civic minded men who are willing to spend their leisure time working for Warren's future.

LWW members, husbands, friends and all interested are asked to take time to hear what's ahead for Warren's future.

The League is a national, non-partisan organization established to promote political responsibility through informed active participation of citizens in government.

Financially, the League is supported by membership dues and contributions by public-spirited citizens outside the League and certain business firms interested in the work of the organization.

The LWW is currently engaged in a small fund raising campaign to make good the group's budget for the year.

Planners to Meet

SOCIAL

Wanderings

by Marion Honhart

ALL TIME IS FAIR TIME in this part of the country, so it seems, when everyone wants to get outside in the crisp sunny air and have one more fling outdoors. The big one coming right now is the NORTH WARREN KIWANIS STREET FAIR, which will be held this coming Friday and Saturday in North Warren. There has been a slight change in time, the Kiwanians called to ask that special attention be drawn to the Street Fair on Friday will be from 4 p.m. until the sun decides to wend his weary way homeward, and, on Saturday it will be from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. On Saturday a Baked Ham Dinner will be served from 5 to 7 p.m. in the North Warren Community House. The fair will be partially in the Community House where booths for a bake sale, book sale, clothing sale will be arranged; the bigger items, out-arranged in street displays and some under a huge tent. Chairmen of the fair are Bob Benson and Joe Gabriel, co-chairmen of the ham dinner are Jim Streich and Bud Dreyer.

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY OPEN HOUSE will be held this coming Sunday at the Woman's Club from 1 to 4 p.m., honoring Mr. and Mrs. John Dahler of 319 Park avenue. The affair will be hosted by their children: Mrs. Francis Dahler, Milton Dahler, Mrs. Jack Kazen of Alhambra, Calif., and Mrs. John Dahler Jr., and Mrs. Henry Baldensel.

NELSON A. JOHNSON JR. and their son, Scott, have moved to Rolling Meadows, Illinois. Mr. Johnson, who earned his Master's degree in September from Michigan State School of Business Administration, has accepted a position with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in Chicago. Both Mr. and Mrs. Johnson — who is the former Lynn Larson — are 1962 graduates of Warren Area High School.

WOMAN'S CLUB BRIDGE PLAYERS will meet the day after tomorrow at their regular time, 1 p.m., in the Woman's Club. Last Thursday there were three tables in play with the average score of 20. Honors went as follows: 1st - Mrs. Carl Hultberg and Mrs. Hazel Shaw, 24; a tie for 2nd and 3rd - Mrs. Theodore Valone and Mrs. Arthur DeLuca, Miss Judy Valone and Mrs. Mable Sharp, 23½.

CONGRATULATIONS TO COURT CALLESTUS No 66 in Kane, Pa. for their approaching 60th anniversary this Sunday, October 1. The Kane court has invited the local Court Warren No. 66 members and the Sheffield-Clarendon Catholic Daughters to share the day with them. A dinner will be served at St. Joseph's Center, Saybrook, at 6:30 p.m. For reservations the telephone calls are to Mr. Dan Doherty at 723-1483 after 5 p.m., no later than tomorrow the 27th.

SIGNATURES: THE NABA Tiona Review No. 12 will meet at the home of Mrs. Mabel Heeter of Tiona tomorrow evening, Sept. 26. All members are asked to be present at this regular monthly meeting. Tomorrow the Retired Teachers of Warren - Forest Counties, Warren Boro will meet in the hospitality room of Northwest Drugs and Loan for a 1 p.m. dessert luncheon. Hazel Finley, Mary Stone, Jessie Connelly and Ellen Thoreson are on committee.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think of an 80-year-old man who buried his wife 11 years ago, and is now going steady with a lady friend? Gramps was always a person who saved his money. Suddenly he has taken to buying sports jackets and shoes with buckles and laces. He gets the best seats to the concerts and plays and he never misses a football or a basketball game. I didn't do any of these things 40 years ago when it would have made some sense. I am a relative and am very concerned about his foolishness. How can we get it across to Gramps that he should be saving his money for his old age so in case he becomes ill and incapacitated he will not be a burden to his family? Thank you. WORRIED FAMILY

DEAR FAMILY: Sorry, but I am not going to tell a man who is 80 to save money for his old age. It sounds as if Gramps is just beginning to get a kick out of life and I say hooray for him. If you want to do him a favor, make sure he has his supplemental Medicare paid up and tell him to enjoy himself.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I was 13 I hated my mother. Almost all my girl friends were allowed to date, but I had to wait till I got into the 10th grade I was humiliated and ashamed. I accused her of trying to keep me a baby all my life. We had some terrible arguments but I couldn't get her to budge. When I was 15 now and just had my third date. What happened last night made me realize that my mother was a lot smarter than I was and I thank the good Lord she didn't let me grind her down. Rick was the dreamiest, smoothest talking guy I'd ever met in my whole life. It was supposed to be a double date but at the last minute we wound up alone. I'm sure he faked me out. Rick said he wanted to get to know the REAL me and going to a movie would be a waste of time so he drove directly to a secluded spot off the main highway and we parked. Rick handed me a line you could hang a two-weeks' wash on. He said I was the girl he had been looking for all his life — that I was wise beyond my years, yet so innocent and fresh. He wanted me to learn about life and love from HIM — not from some experienced old who might scar me emotionally and make me afraid of sex for the rest of my life. I thanked him for being so thoughtful and considerate and told him it was real noble of him but I wasn't buying. I also told him he didn't keep his big paws off me I might have to loosen a few of his teeth to prove I wasn't kidding. I am proud of the way I handled that character and now I can laugh about it. I am certain that two years ago I would have been no match for him. I am lucky I have a mom who stuck to her guns. Just a note — A GRATEFUL DAUGHTER.

DEAR DAUGHTER: Three cheers for you and four cheers to your mother. Those super salesmen with Roman hands and Russian impulses can be mighty dangerous company. I hope your father will give the eager 13-year-olds across the country something to think about.

Melinauskas-Gaghan Wedding In Cleveland

St. George's Catholic Church in Cleveland, Ohio, was the setting recently for the double ring Nuptial Mass in which Theresa Irene Melinauskas became the bride of Thomas Eugene Gaghan. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vladas Melinauskas of 18522 Glenfield Road, Cleveland, Ohio, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gaghan of 504 Mulberry st., Warren.

Father Ivan was celebrant of the Mass. The altar was decorated with white mums. Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white crepe with a crocheted yoke and sleeves and high neckline; the train was of white crepe. She wore a bubble veil and carried five white orchids backed with green ferns.

The maid of honor, Mary Petkus, Cleveland, Ohio, wore a dress of green and blue chiffon with blue flowers as a head-dress. Her bouquet was of blue tinted Fuji mums. Dressed identically were the bridesmaids, Dalia Jurgaitis, Dalia Ciurlionis, both of Cleveland, and Bonnie Beran of Shaker Heights, Ohio. Flower girl was Debra Freeborough, cousin of the groom, from Warren. Best man was Louis Gaghan, brother of the groom, and ushers were James Gaghan, cousin of the groom, Ralph Franks of Cleveland and Dennis Papalia of Warren. Vincent Zebraltis, nephew of the bride, from Detroit, Mich., was the ringbearer.

The mother of the bride chose a blue crepe dress with lace covering, a white hat and wore an orchid corsage. The mother of the groom wore a rose crepe dress with lace, a rose hat and an orchid corsage. Mrs. Frank Gaghan, grandmother of the groom, was remembered with an orchid corsage.

The wedding reception was held at the Ciurlionis Ensemble Home with eighty guests attending.

The couple are residing at 145 Lorentz ave., Morgantown, West Virginia. The new Mrs. Gaghan attended Cleveland State University for two years and is now working for the West Virginia Medical Center, Mr. Gaghan is a graduate of Cleveland State University with a B.S.A. He is now attending graduate school in industrial relations at West Virginia University.

Pre-nuptial affairs were given by Mrs. Frank Gaghan, Evelyn and Marie Gaghan and Mary Petkus. Rehearsal dinner was held at Gallagher's Steak House by the parents of the groom.

Out of town guests were from Warren, Detroit, New York City, Santa Clara, California and Chicago.

Footsaving Education

My son's new shoes are size 1 and his old ones are 13's. Can he wear the old shoes for awhile to play in?

It would be safer to shine up his old shoes for Sundays and let him wear the roomier new shoes for school and play. Parental pride tells us that children must look their best when we take them to church but hurt pride heals quickly. Deformed bones are extremely difficult to straighten and that is an understatement if there ever was one.

The rigors of play — the running, jumping, twisting, turning — are strenuous for the child's feet. It is for play that the most properly fitting shoes are most necessary.

A New You by Emily Wilkens Temper Cooler

DEAR EMILY WILKENS:
TEMPER TANTRUMS

I can't seem to control my temper, no matter how hard I try. I'm ready to fly into a sudden rage at the slightest provocation. Is there any way to prevent these explosions?

Janice M.

Here's my favorite temper "cool-off" treatment:

Lie flat on the floor on a bath towel in a quiet spot for several minutes. Breathe deeply in and out through the nose. Relax completely. Close your eyes and recall some pleasant, peaceful scene, or imagine yourself lying on a frothy little pink cloud, floating away from all earthly cares. When you get up, sip a glass of warm milk spiced with a spoonful of molasses.

Frequently a jolt of fresh air or a change of activity helps prevent tantrums, too. Sometimes to hold your temper in check, slip into a coat and work off that anger in running or walking up and down the block a few times.

Perhaps you're not getting enough sleep? There's nothing like fatigue for setting tired nerves on edge.

Finally, if you feel that deep-rooted problems are causing your temper flare-ups, you might consult your doctor.

WAST WOES

My waist and midriff are much too heavy. Do you know an exercise designed to reduce them?

Carol P.

An overall weight loss will, of course, slim down these areas. Stretching, bending, and twisting exercises help firm waist and midriff. Here is an excellent Yoga exercise called the Side Stretch:

1. Stand with legs about twelve inches apart, hands at sides.

2. Bring arms out at sides at shoulder level.

3. Bend torso slowly to your left until left hand touches left knee, or as far as you can stretch. Right arm is straight up in the air. Drop head and neck to the side. Hold stretch for count of five.

4. Straighten up slowly and gracefully.

5. Repeat movement on the right side.

Do the exercise three times, alternating sides. Increase holding time of the stretch by five seconds each week until you reach twenty seconds comfortably.

FEET UP

I've been reading a lot lately about keeping the feet up as much as possible. As I'm bothered by swollen ankles, I wondered if this would be of any help to me.

The "beauty angle" position is often mentioned. What, exactly, does this mean, and what purpose does it serve?

Eunice G.

The "beauty angle" position consists of lying with the head down towards the floor and the feet elevated about eighteen inches. There are slant boards available in stores for this purpose. It's helpful to have a strap or loop at the higher end to hold feet in place.

An ironing board, propped up with telephone books to the proper height, is a quick and easy solution.

Because we spend most of our days standing and walking, blood is constantly flowing into the legs and feet. It's a good idea to defy the law of gravity as often as possible and send blood back to the face and head. This reversal often helps eliminate swelling and aching in the feet and ankles.

Begin by lying in the "beauty angle" for ten minutes a day (less if you find yourself getting dizzy). Even a quick rest on your bed, with several pillows tucked under your feet, will make you feel like a new woman.

Miss Camilla Henderson Honored At Annual Presbyterian Dinner

Miss Camilla M. Henderson was honor guest at a recognition dinner at 1st Presbyterian Church Fellowship Hall Saturday evening. The occasion was her retirement as teacher and superintendent of the primary department of the church school for 39 years, from 1928 to 1967. Miss Henderson was also cited for her service as a public school teacher for 45 years.

Pastor Donald Spencer presented Miss Henderson with a Schofield Reference Bible as a token of remembrance for her devotion to young life.

Speaker for the occasion was Mrs. Charles W. Hauser of Harrisburg, one of America's most distinguished speakers on Christian missions. Her topic: "For Such A Time." Lifelong student of missions, Mrs. Hauser serves in summer leadership schools for Lutherans, Baptists, Presbyterians, Evangelical United Brethren and others.

The annual recognition dinner also honored some 100 officers and teachers of the Presbyterian church school for their service to Christian education.

Meade Hinderlter, chairman of the Christian Education committee of the session, was master of ceremonies. He introduced Alan Buerkle church school superintendent, who in turn recognized the department superintendents. Each superintendent then introduced the staff of his department.

Assistant pastor Frank R. Churchill Jr., director of Christian education, cited the leaders of special activities, and projects in the church school.

The dinner was prepared by the Women's Association under direction of Mrs. Vance Weld and Mrs. James Potter. The meal was served by senior high school students.

Bear Lake News Notes

By PEGGY OSBORNE

Miss Ellen Smith of Buffalo, N.Y., has been a recent guest of Peggy Osborne and daughters.

Thursday evening there was a Community Action meeting in the Wrightsville Community Church, for the Bear Lake, Lottsville, and Wrightsville communities. Mrs. Lucille Irvine presided at the meeting. About 35 attended. This turned out to be a very hot discussion about a community center, to be at Lottsville. There was a discussion about the need for a center like this. The next meeting will take place October 19th in the Lottsville church basement.

Friday evening Mrs. Chester Bailey had a bridal shower for Miss Patty Hanner of Wrightsville, who is going to marry Butch Hamm of Bear Lake. Miss Nancy Jukes and Mrs. Shirley Straight also assisted. Games were played and she received many lovely gifts. Cake, salad coffee and punch were served. Guests were from Corry, Bear Lake, Sugar Grove, Wrightsville, Warren, Jamestown, and North Clymer.

Impala Sport Coupe

Distinctively new! Fastback or formal. Both '68 Chevrolet Impala coupes.

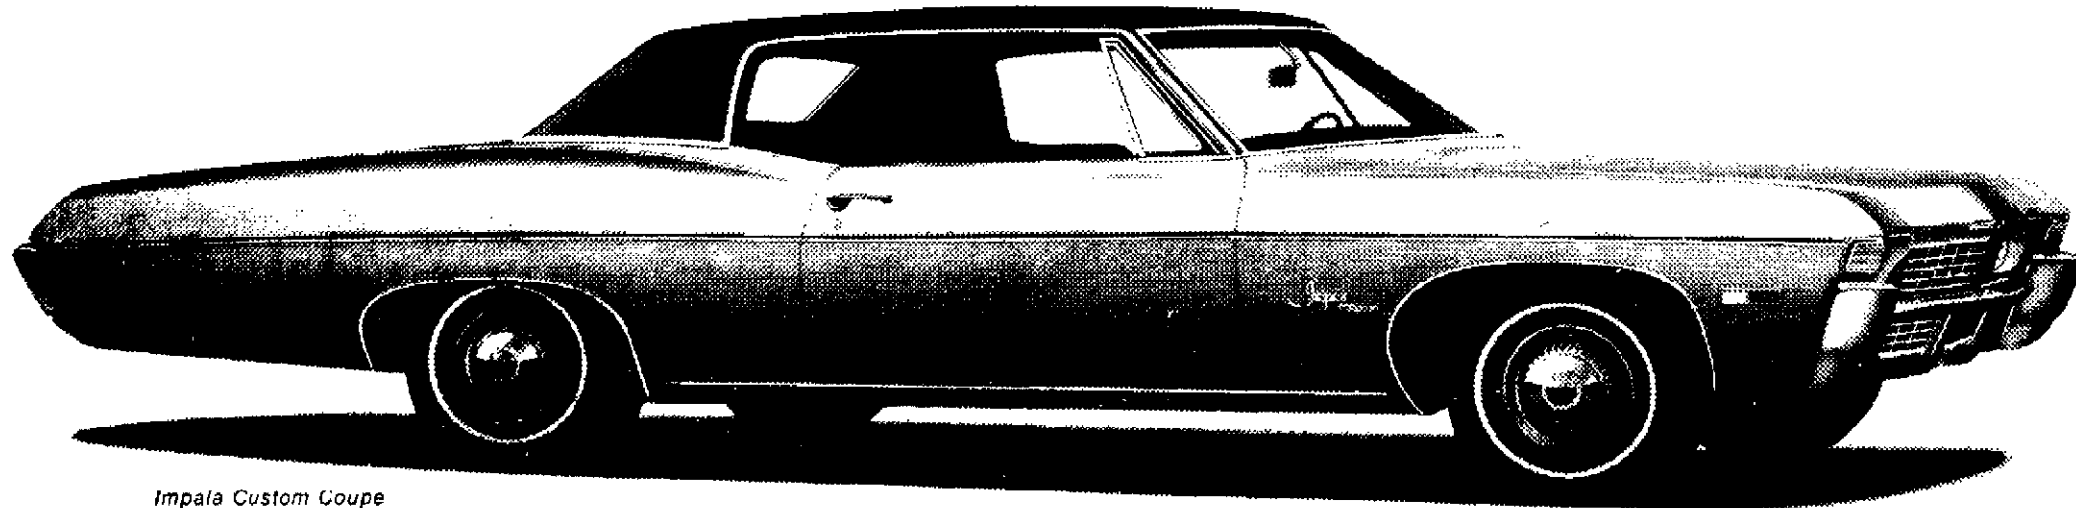

No two Impalas ever looked less alike. By design. Because no two Impala buyers ever think just alike. Some want the spirited, action-packed fastback look. Others prefer the poised and classic lines of our new Custom Coupe. How about you? Whichever style you choose, you'll wind up with such new 1968 quality features as:

Chevrolet's quietest ride
We made the ride still smoother with newly engineered springs and shocks. We utilized computers to place body and engine mounts at just the right spots to keep road vibrations away from you. Even our clocks tick to a quieter beat.

Better Performance
There's a new, bigger standard V8 and a new 250-hp version available that runs on regular fuel. And on most Impalas equipped with an automatic transmission, you get a special heater for the carburetor for better cold-weather performance. And with every engine, you get the new GM exhaust emission control.

Proved safety features
You get the proved GM-developed energy absorbing steering column, folding seat back latches, and new this year, energy absorbing front seat backs, new safety armrests, and many more.

More Than's New All Around
There are new Hide-A-Way windshield wipers, distinctive side marker lamps, recessed taillights. Inside there's a new, rich look to the Impala instrument panel, new interior trim, new vinyls, fabrics, colors. Lever-type door handles are new, too. The Impala Coupes for 1968. They're worth looking at; they're worth looking into.

Ludlow Area News

By MRS. HILDUR WENSTRAN
The Lutheran Churchwomen held their meeting at the church Thursday evening with a good attendance. The Rev. Robert L. Olson opened the meeting with scripture and prayer and a song by the audience. Mrs. Mildred Nelson then introduced the guest speaker, the Rev. Father Julius Kubinyi of St. Michael's Catholic Church in Sheffield, who spoke on behalf of the proposed Inter-Faith Chapel for the mentally ill to be built on the grounds of Warren State Hospital.

His talk was most interesting and was enjoyed by all. He stressed that we all should have more faith in God.

Refreshments were served from a beautifully arranged table with garden flowers by Mrs. Leroy Johnson, Mrs. Andrew Bair and Mrs. Agnes Forsgren.

The Ludlow Study Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Mabelle Nelson Monday evening with nine members present. The president, Mrs. Frank Elge, conducted the meeting. Officers were all re-elected with Mrs. Frank Elge as president, Mrs. Esther Anderson, vice president and Miss Tillie Olson as secretary and treasurer.

The program was given by Mrs. Wade Cochran and Mrs. Frank Elge on a discussion on current events.

Mrs. Nelson served delicious refreshments and a social evening was enjoyed.

Word has been received here that Mrs. Maude La Rock, 87, a former Ludlow resident, had died Sept. 19 at a convalescent home in Hartford, Conn. where she had spent a year and a half since she fell and broke her hip. She had up to that time made her home with a daughter. Mr. La Rock preceded her in death years ago in Ludlow.

Mrs. Jennie Tunall, 75, of Kane, a former Ludlow resident, died at Kane Summit Hospital Tuesday where she had been a patient for five weeks.

She was the former Jennie Polinick of Ludlow and had been ill for the past five years. Funeral services in her memory were held Friday afternoon at the Cummings Funeral Home at 1:30 with the Rev. Mallard Nelson, pastor of Tabor Lutheran Church officiating. Burial was in Tabor Cemetery in Kane.

Attending the funeral from Ludlow were Ben Peterson, Olger Wallin and Mrs. Lawrence Olson.

A neighborhood party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Herman Hanson Saturday evening in celebration of their 60th wedding anniversary. Mr. Hanson will observe his 85th birthday on Oct. 1. was also mentioned and "Happy Birthday" was sung for him. Despite his age, he has a sense of humor and provided excellent entertainment.

Many colored slides were shown by Ward Anderson of the party at the Hanson home on their 50th anniversary and other subjects.

He also took pictures of those present and of the honored couple at the refreshment table with the beautiful birthday cake decorated in 60th anniversary and pink rosebuds brought by their daughter Mrs. Mildred Kunkle of Olean, N.Y. The couple were the recipients of many cards with gifts enclosed. The party was arranged by Mrs. Ward Anderson, Mrs. Ernest Anderson and Mrs. Erland Olson. Music for singing was played by Hildur Wenstran.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Ward Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Erland Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Mortenson, Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Drogowski, Mrs. Eva Jones, Mrs. Ed Wenstran, Gladys Morelli, Millie Morelli, Tillie Olson, Ellen Olson, Johnny Cox. Also Miss Ruth Fitzgerald of Cleveland, Ohio and Mrs. Mildred Kunkle of Olean, N.Y.

Mrs. Agnes Forsgren entertained at a luncheon on Saturday for a few friends in observance of her birthday. Mrs. Evelyn Anderson, Mrs. Alma Carlson, Mrs. Anna Bergquist, Miss Norma Bergquist, Mrs. Teresa Keim, Mrs. Hildur Wenstran, Mrs. Alfred Johnson and children, Alfie, Barry, Yolanda, Lisa and Annette attended. After a most delicious meal visiting was enjoyed and the opening of gifts were the delight of the children.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Olson of Wildcat spent last weekend in Columbus, Ohio, where they were guests at the home of their son Mr. and Mrs. Gall Olson and family. They recently moved there from Rochester, N.Y. While there Lawrence Olson celebrated his birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Nelson returned home Saturday a week ago from Cleveland, Ohio, where Mrs. Nelson has been under doctors' care at the Cleveland Clinic since June 16.

Mrs. Ebba Briggs of Shiloh, O. is visiting at the home of her daughter Miss Shirley Briggs for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hanson and Mrs. Evelyn Anderson, visited relatives in Jamestown, N.Y. Sunday afternoon.

Our Philosophy

We believe that there rests upon the individual citizen the responsibility for his country, his state, his county and his municipality. We believe it is his responsibility to elect officials who realize that their chief duty is to serve the needs, individual and collective, of the people whom they represent.

We think that the men you choose for county commissioner must be qualified and responsible in order to serve these needs. Responsibility demands that the county be operated efficiently & economically with each tax dollar returned to the people in the form of vital and necessary services of equal value. To be qualified, they must possess diplomacy and dignity to be above petty quarrels and personal feuds in order to be worthy of the trust placed in them by the people. They must possess the judgment necessary to discern what programs are in the best interest of the people.

Our political philosophy may be summed up in these words of Henry Clay, "that government is a trust, and the officers of government are the trustees, and both the trust and the trustees are created for the benefit of the people."

OUR PLATFORM

TAXES

The agencies and services administered by your county commissioners are paid for by you, the taxpayer. The only justification for the existence of these agencies is that they should be necessary to the county and its residents for a better, safer, more productive life, present and future. To be responsible for your tax money is perhaps the single most important trust you can place in an official when you elect him. To merely say "We should not do this or that because it costs money," is not the kind of administration worthy of this trust.

We propose fiscal responsibility as an alternative to this negativism. We will judge each program, when it is proposed, by these criteria: (1) Is it necessary for the well being of the county and its residents? (2) If it is necessary, is this the most economical method for filling the need?

Tax revenues in Warren County increase substantially every year without an increase in tax millage by virtue of the larger tax base that results from the number of new residences and industries moving into the county. While it is unrealistic to say taxes can be decreased at this time, we will make every effort to hold the line on taxes, believing increases in costs can be absorbed by the additional revenues that result from economic growth.

To achieve this, we propose a personal study, in depth, of all programs in existence, trimming the budget wherever spending is found to be unnecessary or uneconomical.

We also believe that taxation should be made more fair and equitable by updating property assessments and seeking tax relief for the elderly. The percentage of Warren County residents over 65 exceeds the state average of 9.9 per cent. These citizens constitute a large segment of the county's population receiving a much lower annual income than the average taxpayer and paying a greater portion of their income in taxes. To be fair, their taxes should be geared more equitably to their income.

We believe these proposals will result in a just proportioning of the tax burden and will give the taxpayer a 100 per cent return of his dollar in the form of vital services.

PLANNING and TRANSPORTATION

Warren County's future depends on the growth of its population and industries. Orderly and timely planning is a requisite for this development and progress. The county planning commission has already proved its worth in that highway construction currently under way, including the Youngsville Bypass, has come into being because the planning commission had workable plans to present to the State Highway Department.

We believe this concept of orderly planning should be continued in order to make Warren County a desirable site for new industries and new residents thereby assuring economic growth.

Also vital to growth is the development of fast, efficient and dependable means of transportation. This includes better highways and suitable airport facilities. At present, in view of the fact that development of our own airport facilities is unrealistic and that the Jamestown facilities are totally inadequate and have no expansion potential, we should support, within reason, the current development and expansion of the area facilities at Mt. Alton.

We propose the foregoing platform as a sane and responsible approach to solving the problems of Warren County, serving the best interests of its residents and assuring its economic growth.
